CAMPAIGN LEADERS
DECIDE ON PLAN

Their Meeting Declares
"It Is Unthinkable That
St. Louis Will Fail to Meet Emergency."

Two hundred citizens agreed today to continue the $3,000,000 joint campaign of the Community Fund and the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment by seeking to raise a minimum of $200,000 apiece to help make up a shortage of more than $500,000.

Solicitation by the regular campaign organization ended Friday after $2,348,000 had been raised. Since then the shortage of $652,000 has been reduced by nearly $50,000 through late contributions.

The plan to complete the $3,000,000 goal was presented as an emergency measure by campaign leaders at a breakfast at Hotel Chase this morning and unanimously approved by nearly 200 persons who were present by invitation. The meeting, it was made clear, was "not an underwriting, but an undertaking."

Method to Be Used.
Each of the 200 will select about 20 names from a list of those who have already contributed through the Special Gifts Division. Using these names each solicitor will endeavor to raise at least $2000, continuing his efforts until the goal is reached. Should each solicitor raise only his quota, however, the total would still be $200,000 short of the $3,000,000 goal.

The additional funds will be distributed as in the regular campaign, to the Community Fund and the Citizens' Committee in the proportion of 75 and 25 per cent, respectively.

In opening today's meeting, Charles Nagel, attorney and president of the Washington University Corporation, said: "It is unthinkable that a city as large as St. Louis will fail to meet an emergency such as has developed in this campaign."

Time for Action.
"When it became apparent that the goal would not be reached," he said, "leaders of the campaign decided to end regular solicitation and present the situation to a group of representative citizens. Your presence confirms that decision. The goal of $3,000,000 was fixed and that amount must be raised. The time for talking has passed and the time for action has come."

Frank C. Rand, chairman of the International Shoe Co., said the meeting was called to determine whether the responsibility of raising $500,000 should be permitted to rest on the four men who had started the campaign or should be shared by the whole group.

It was decided that the plan to continue the campaign, Gale P. Johnson, campaign chairman, said that it was apparent that the needed balance could not be made up by the organization in the field.

"When we dismissed our workers Friday night," he said, "many of them were exhausted by weeks of effort and many were faced with the necessity of returning to their jobs. We decided that the present plan was the most feasible and the best means of making up the deficiency."

Hand suggested that each of the five name a friend to work with him as partner. This he pointed out was pointed out, and were not intended to limit solicitation. The list of the individual workers was checked today to avoid duplication so that solicitation may begin tomorrow.

At the close of the meeting two contributions, one of $4000 and one of $2000, were announced.

TELLS HOW INSULT WRITES UP PROFIT IN UTILITY DEALS

Federal Examiner Says
Middle West Co., Measures
Income Then Assigns
Values to Subsidiaries.

OFTEN GETS COMMON STOCK AT NO COST

Trade Commission Witness Explains Bonds and Preferred Repay Cost of Acquiring New Unit.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Securities and properties of the Middle West Utilities Co. of the Insull group came in for attention in data submitted at the opening of hearings yesterday by the Federal Trade Commission into the financial structure of the company. Asel R. Colbert, commission accountant, brought out in his report as examiner that a summary of amounts recorded by the company as profits and sales, exchanges or realizations of securities and profits, from organization in May, 1912, to Sept. 30, 1930, showed a total of $28,196,229.

"A considerable portion of the profits recorded on sales of securities has been based on subsidiary exchanges with values assigned to the securities received measuring the amount of profit," his report said. "In a number of cases such so-called profits have been nothing more, in effect, than a write-up of investment security values and represent no realized earnings of the Middle West Utilities Co."

Colbert reported the Middle West company shortly after organization began consolidating utility companies into larger operating units.

Common Stock at No Cost.
"These companies formed to take over the properties were usually capitalized high enough so that the Middle West Utilities Co. received a sufficient amount of bonds or preferred stocks to repay the cost of acquiring the properties, and thus held the common stock at no cost," he said. "This procedure naturally resulted in a higher valuation being placed on the properties by the new operating companies in order to balance the securities issued."

However, subsequent to the organization of subsidiary operating companies, Middle West has made additional investments in their common stocks, usually for cash or its equivalent at par, and has thus built up a substantial common stock equity in subsidiary operating companies.

He said the $28,196,229 was divided as follows: Profits on sale of securities and properties to subsidiaries, $17,710,847; on sales of securities to outsiders, $8,230,426; on sales of Middle West's own securities, $732,644; appreciation recorded through revaluation of securities, $1,371,712; and unapportioned as between sales to subsidiaries and outsiders, but consisting principally of profit on sales to outsiders, $160,429.

Colbert also took up the question of the company's surpluses, saying records showed earned surplus amounting to $2,794,494 on Sept. 30, 1930, and capital surplus (not counting the capital surplus arising from the 1929 financing) to $10,257,970.

What Subsidiaries Earned.
"Representatives of the company contend," he reported, "that stock dividends were paid out of surplus which was not divided as between earned surplus and capital surplus and that, therefore, such dividends might have been paid in part at least out of the surplus here designated as capital surplus. The examiner does not agree with this premise."

Colbert reported the rate of return earned during 1928 and 1929 on the common stock investments in the principal subsidiary companies showed the lowest return was 2 per cent and the highest 11.79 per cent.

In an examination of expense accounts, Colbert said no evidence was found of political expenditures. Under the Senate resolution ordering the utilities investigations, the commission was instructed to look also for such evidence.

The extent of the Middle West company's operations in 30 states, Canada and Mexico was brought out in testimony by Harry H. Carter and W. B. Horne, commission examiners. Carter reported a net increase of 21.62 per cent in the company's 1930 interstate movement of electric energy over the 1929 movement.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD DENIED AID TO WABASH

President Atterbury in Statement Tells Why More Funds Were Refused.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, stated last night his company had declined to render financial assistance to the Wabash Railway Co., which went into the hands of receivers in St. Louis.

In a formal statement, Atterbury said Pennsylvania officials deplored "the necessity of any railroad receivership," but in view of its large investment in the Wabash Railway Co., the Pennsylvania feels that it should not add to the investment it has already made.

The Pennsylvania had considered an extension of funds to protect the Wabash against receivership, Atterbury said, but decided that for the present "the interests of the property and of the investment the Pennsylvania has made in it, will be best protected through a receivership under the control of the courts."

Statement by Atterbury.

Atterbury's statement follows: "The Pennsylvania Railroad deeply deplores the necessity for any railroad receivership."

"Pennsylvania company, in 1927 and 1928, made a large investment in the stock of the Wabash Railway Co. The purpose was ultimately to further the principles of railroad consolidation envisaged by the transportation act, it being the hope of the Pennsylvania that the Interstate Commerce Commission would allocate the Wabash to the Pennsylvania under a four-party grouping of the railroads in Eastern territory. That plan has been embodied in the petition of the trunk lines now pending before the commission. It is the belief of the Pennsylvania that, if approved, such allocation will be of advantage to both the Pennsylvania and to the Wabash as well as to the public."

Cities Commission Ruling.

"The question was presented to the Pennsylvania as to whether it would be justified in increasing its investment in the Wabash Railway Company in the form of an extension of funds necessary to protect the company against receivership. The following considerations had to be taken into account:

"1. The Interstate Commerce Commission has decided that under the terms of the Clayton Act, the Pennsylvania must cease and desist from a continuation of holding its stock in the Wabash. That question is pending before the courts."

"2. The Commission's complete plan of consolidation, which has placed the Wabash in a different system from that in which the Pennsylvania is placed, and the pronouncement by the Commission that no company in one system shall have any interest in or control over a company in another system."

"3. The present and prospective deficits in meeting the maturities and fixed charges of the Wabash are of great immediate magnitude, and it is impossible to forecast for what period and in what amount they will continue to accumulate."

"In the face of the existing situation, the Pennsylvania feels that it should not add to the investment it has already made in the Wabash Railway Company. It is believed that the interest of the property, and of the investment of the Pennsylvania has made in it, will for the present, be best protected through a receivership under the control of the courts."

FEDERAL INQUIRY INTO CHARGES OF PEONAGE LIKELY

Chief of Army Engineers Is on Inspection Tour of Mississippi Levees and Asks for Report.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—A thorough investigation appeared likely today of charges of peonage in the levee construction camps along the Lower Mississippi.

News that a Federation of Labor investigation was going to report conditions of brutality, use of lash and pistol butt, on Negro laborers held in peonage by contractors on the big Government flood-control job, set in motion a War Department investigation.

There is a possibility that Congress may look into the situation. However, the chief of army engineers, Major-General Lytle Brown, is on the spot, and the regional supervising engineer of the army has been instructed to report fully on conditions. The Labor Federation intends to give full publicity to the report.

Press reports were the first the army engineers heard about the alleged conditions, but Gen. Brown already had planned to look into protests from around Vicksburg, Miss., that employment had been slashed in the Government shops there.

Representative Collier of Mississippi took these complaints to Brown, but said he had not heard about the peonage charges. Collier thought transfer of levee maintenance and construction work to private contractors had caused the trouble.

Collier talked with Brown last Friday, just before the latter left for a tour of inspection along the levees.

At that time neither had heard of charges by Thomas E. Carroll and Holt Ross, Federation of Labor representatives, that systematic brutality was being practiced by contractors in the construction camps.

The Mississippi Representative said he informed Brown that many workers in the camps were being required to labor 12 hours daily and six days a week at low pay.

Brown Says Peonage Conditions Are Unknown to Him.

By the Associated Press.
GREENVILLE, Miss., Dec. 2.—Major-General Brown, chief of army engineers, commenting on charges that river levee contractors were practicing peonage and brutality against helpless Negro laborers, declared that "any such conditions are unknown to me."

Brown, who reached here aboard the U. S. S. Commodore, on an inspection trip of flood control projects, said the labor investigation did not specify any contractor or any definite locality where alleged peonage exists.

"If there is any peonage, cruelty or exploitation of labor, it has not come to my notice. I am well equipped to find out if it does exist and it will not be tolerated on any work where the United States corps of engineers is concerned."

Referring to charges that common labor in many camps ran as low as 75 cents for 12 to 15 hours, Brown said he had inquired of individual Negroes about their wages.

"From my present knowledge of work on the river, I am inclined to believe that labor is not being exploited, and that the practice of peonage would be impossible," said Brown.

Representative of Contractors Denies Brutality Charges.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 2.—Frank Stanford, president of the Mississippi Valley flood control branch of the Associated General Contractors, today denied charges of "peonage and brutality" against "helpless Negroes" in contractors' camps in the Vicksburg area of the Mississippi River.

He said he frequently visited levee camps in the Memphis, Vicksburg and New Orleans areas and added: "I can most positively state that nowhere in the valley have I found conditions as described by representatives of the labor federation."

Stanford said "flogging of Negro labor ceased many years ago." He pictured conditions as entirely satisfactory.

"The unjust criticism comes with poor grace from organized labor, which to date has suffered less from the depression than any other class in America," he added.

Wabash Road in Receivership

The Seaboard Air Line and Florida East Coast.

Wall street, a dispatch said, found the Wabash action disheartening. It appeared to indicate that in difficulties could not get even temporary relief from the Government. A decision on the emergency pooling plan of the Interstate Commerce Commission is now awaited, and the Wabash action was taken as indicating that the decision, when it comes, will not help the weaker roads.

Gross revenues of the Wabash declined from $75,000,000 in 1929 to $62,000,000 in 1930, and for the first eight months of 1931 the gross was about $24,800,000, compared with $42,500,000 for the same months of 1930. Net income fell from $7,854,000 in 1929 to $2,781,000 in 1930, and the first six months of 1931 showed, instead of a profit, a deficit of $1,759,000, with no improvement in later months.

Attorneys for the T. J. Moss Tie Co. and for the Wabash appeared before Federal Judge Davis at 4:10 p. m. yesterday. The tie company petitioned for a receivership, stating that its claim of $49,652 was unpaid. Former Supreme Judge Fred L. Williams, representing the tie company, said the road admitted that it was without funds to pay the bill, and that it was unable to meet $4,000,000 current operating bill.

Williams stated to the court that there was "no charge or suggestion of mismanagement of the affairs of the Wabash." The tie company stated that, for the year ending Oct. 31, the interest on all the road's outstanding indebtedness amounted to more than $6,806,363, and that the net revenue from operating and other sources was insufficient to discharge such interest regularly.

The petition stated further that the excess of liabilities over book value of the road's assets was more than $6,000,000.

For the 10 months ending Oct. 31, the petition said, gross earnings were $11,230,000 less than for the corresponding month of 1930. Unless a receiver were appointed, the road's assets would be likely to occur.

Bopped indebtedness of the road, the petition stated, was a total of $1,947,300, and there was a deficit of $1,947,300 in the road's assets. The statement as to the efforts made to get help from the "largest stockholding interests" was verified by the admission of President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania, that assistance had been sought from that road and had been refused. The Pennsylvania has been ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission to dispose of its holdings of Wabash stock, these being $35,230,000 of Wabash common and $11,200,000 of preferred "A" stock. The Pennsylvania last May petitioned the United States Circuit

Nat. S. Brown, vice president and general counsel of the Wabash, filed the road's answer, admitting the allegations and joining in the prayer for receivership. The answer stated:

"Believing it to be its duty to its stockholders and creditors to protect its property and business and to treat the same as a trust fund for their security, the defendant joins in the bill of complaint and asks the Court to take charge, through appointment of receivers, and thereby preserve unity of the system of railroads and its corporate franchises, privileges and properties."

When Judge Davis spoke of taking the matter under advisement, Brown urged immediate action, saying that the appointment of ancillary receivers in other judicial districts would be necessary. The judge then conferred in chambers with the attorneys, President Franklin and Assistant Counsel Nicodemus, and at 5:30 p. m. he announced the appointment of Franklin and Nicodemus as receivers. Their bond was fixed at $100,000.

This statement was later issued from Wabash headquarters:

"The Wabash Railway Co. has felt constrained to acquiesce in the appointment of receivers for its property."

"This conclusion was reached with the utmost reluctance and after every practicable effort had been made to secure through banks, through its largest stockholding interests and through governmental aid the necessary funds to carry the company through the unparalleled conditions which have so disastrously reduced its revenues and its ability to meet its maturing obligations."

"In the situation confronting the company, it was deemed to be the manifest duty of its management to accept the protection of the courts to the end that undue preference of creditors and serious property and service complications should be avoided and impartial and protective administration during the period through which we are now passing should be assured."

The statement as to the efforts made to get help from the "largest stockholding interests" was verified by the admission of President Atterbury of the Pennsylvania, that assistance had been sought from that road and had been refused. The Pennsylvania has been ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission to dispose of its holdings of Wabash stock, these being $35,230,000 of Wabash common and $11,200,000 of preferred "A" stock. The Pennsylvania last May petitioned the United States Circuit Court of Appeals to set aside the Commission's order, and it has been understood that the Pennsylvania intended to carry the case to the Supreme Court if necessary.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, in its recommendation for combining Eastern roads into principal groups or systems, proposed a "five-trunk" unification plan, one part of which would be made up of the Wabash and Seaboard Air Line. Eastern railroad executives later agreed upon a "four-trunk" scheme whereby the Wabash would be joined with the Pennsylvania system.

In the last three months, the Wabash had taken steps for short-term financing, in the hope of providing for its obligations without impairment of solvency. In September it obtained permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission to pledge its holding of 177,900 shares of the common stock of the Lehigh Valley on short-term notes. This enabled the Wabash to place $10,000,000 of such notes, and to retire $8,450,000 of maturing notes.

While the petitions filed here do not indicate that any default in the road's bonded indebtedness and interest has occurred, a New York dispatch states that the Wabash yesterday defaulted to the amount of $161,000 on three equipment trust issues, securities generally regarded as among the best safeguarded of railroad obligations. These defaults, the dispatch stated, comprised $166,000 on series D 5s, $171,000 on series E 5s, and $279,000 on series F 4 1/2s.

Receivers Franklin and Nicodemus were named as ancillary receivers for the Wabash in the Chicago Federal Court jurisdiction, by an order of Judge Wilkerson in Chicago today. Their bond was fixed at $100,000 each.

Traffic experts attributed the decline in the revenues of the Wabash, in part, to the lessening and diversion of its haul of automobiles, formerly a major source of revenue of the road. The Wabash, being the only line running directly south-west from Detroit, formerly hauled large tonnage of automobiles from Detroit and near-by motor manufacturing centers, as well as from Toledo.

The Wabash is one of the oldest of mid-western railroads, the present system having grown from the old Northern Cross road, extending from Quincy, Ill., to the Indiana state line; from the old North Missouri road running northwest from St. Louis, and other early short lines. An extension to Pittsburg, which was later abandoned, marked its farthest penetration into Eastern territory.

ern territory. A previous receivership, in which E. B. Fryor and the late William K. Bixby were receivers, ended in 1915 with the organization of the Wabash Railway Co. The company in 1935 acquired control of the Ann Arbor, and in 1929 acquired control of the Lake Erie & Fort Wayne, a small line in Indiana. Franklin, now one of the receivers, came here a few weeks ago from headquarters of the Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia, where he was assistant to the vice president in charge of operation. His election to the presidency, succeeding the late William H. Williams, was taken as indicating that the Pennsylvania intended to keep in close touch with the management of the Wabash property. He was the third president within a short period, James E. Taussig having retired in August.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 2.—Sanitary Milk Producers' association has broken up its control of milk prices in St. Louis, and to St. Louis consumers, the association's secretary-manager today in Attorney-General Lynch's investigation.

The inquiry has centred on the fact that the association has attempted to show that the five might at some time be a monopoly, control prices as well as those of farmers.

Lynch testified the act was set by the distributors kept in line with generally prices by the autom association's dealings with the individual decision dairy, although the Pro association represented it collectively. The act was to bind any dealer the action of the others.

Answers Monopoly of "Formerly," he said Dairy Co., selling half and as large as most of dairies put together, has monopoly. It could set the price in the city which the country prices to the producers.

"A monopoly would be every dairy in St. Louis, because the voice price to farmers is divided the buyers and the price think it is rather the Pro Co. that has the monopoly."

D. M. Lide, president of the National Dairy Producers' Association, testified that his concern was 1928 by National Dairy Producers' Association, and its own board of directors from Highland and other owned by National Dairy Producers' Association.

He said that in conference the co-operative has none except his own, became interested only found 1600 of his ship members of the organization.

Producers' officers farmers in the St. Louis were getting less for milk the probable cost of production was doubtful if the farmers obtain more under present conditions, said Lynch.

Lynch and E. W. W. president, were questioning possibility that the might some time close ship and operate as a increase prices.

Lynch said he pres would bargain for return under more favorable circumstances. But, he a question whether it is return the farmer more now receives. Feed ridiculously low. Soy beans, for example, are 15 cents whereas they cost $1.25. There's not much chance current prices on current values. The price, too low. The far ducts, his own feeds, a production loss. Even knows anything about, knows that the producers to bear the burden of a drop in prices."

Advantages Shared by members and non-members the same price from operating with the association farmer obtained a advantage by belonging to the association. But, he explained, members had the advantage of participating in the general price level, the dealers' weights and to-date information on ratings and on market an organized effort quality and increase the milk." He admitted the members' baby added that they lacke of representation. Special Assistant Attorney General Metcalf pointed out the "checkbook" Producers' Association St. Louis District Dairy dealers paid 2 or 3 hundred pounds to members and non-members and a advantage there was a tributor to deal with the.

SAYS PRODUCERS' COMBINE BROKE UP MILK MONOPOLY

Secretary-Manager Lynch So Testifies at Attorney-General's Anti-Trust Inquiry.

EXPLAINS DEALING WITH ITS MEMBERS

Declares Automatic Action of Economic Law Keeps Price in Line With That of Other Commodities.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 2.—The National Milk Producers' Association has broken up monopolistic control of milk prices to farmers and to St. Louis consumers, A. D. Lynch, secretary-manager, testified today in Attorney-General Shartel's anti-trust investigation.

The inquiry has centered in attempts to show that the co-operative might at some time operate as a monopoly, controlling retail prices as well as those paid the farmers.

Lynch testified the retail price was set by the distributors and kept in line with general commodity prices by the automatic action of economic law. He described the association's dealings with co-operating dairies as depending upon the individual decision of each dairy, although the Producers' Association represented its members collectively. There was nothing, he said, to bind any dealer to join in the action of the others.

Answers Monopoly Charge. "Formerly," he said, "Pevely Dairy Co., selling half the market and as large as most of the other dairies put together, had a virtual monopoly. It could set retail prices in the city which the others had to follow, and set the pace in the country prices to the producers. A monopoly would not exist if every dairy in St. Louis dealt with us, because the voice as to the price to farmers is divided between the buyers and the producers. I think it is rather the Pevely Dairy Co. that has the monopoly or had one."

Dr. M. Lide, president of the St. Louis Dairy Co., testified that though his concern was bought in 1928 by National Dairy Products, Inc., it was locally operated with its own board of directors representing St. Louisians and separate from Highland and other concerns owned by National Dairy Products. He said that in conferences with the co-operative he, represented none except his own company and became interested only when he found 1000 of his shippers were members of the organization.

Production at Loss. Producers' officers declared farmers in the St. Louis district were getting less for milk now than the probable cost of production. It was doubtful if the farmers could obtain more under present conditions, said Lynch.

Lynch and E. W. Tiedeman, president, were questioned as the possibility that the co-operative might some time close its membership and operate as a monopoly to increase prices.

Lynch said he presumed the farmers would bargain for a larger return under more favorable circumstances. But he added: "It is a question whether it is possible to return the farmer more than he now receives. Feed prices are ridiculously low. Soy beans, for example, are 20 cents a bushel, whereas they cost $1.20 last year. There's not much chance to increase current prices on the basis of current values. The price is, however, too low. The farmer in producing his own feeds, has taken a production loss. Everybody who knows anything about economics knows that the producer is the first to bear the burden of any general drop in prices."

Advantages Shared by All. Lynch admitted that, since members and nonmembers alike received the same price from dealers co-operating with the association, the dairy farmer obtained no price advantage by belonging to the association. But he explained, the members had the advantage of "a businesslike participation at the bargain counter and its effect on the general price level, a check on the dealers' weights and tests, up-to-date information on their credit ratings and on market trends, and an organized effort to improve quality and increase the demand for milk." He admitted that nonmembers automatically got the benefit of the members' bargaining, but added that they lacked the privilege of representation.

Special Assistant Attorney-General Metcalfe pointed out that, counting the "check-off" to the Producers' Association and to the St. Louis District Dairy Council, the dealers paid 2 cents more a hundred pounds to members than to non-members and asked, what advantage there was for the distributor to deal with the co-operative.

"He has the voluntary co-operation of his supply in the development of sound market practices," said Lynch. "The base and surplus plan keeps an even flow of milk coming throughout the year, instead of trebling his business at one part of the year and allowing his plant to run at one-third ca-capacity in another part of the year. He has the advantage of a quality improvement program that sells more milk, and good will of a value that I do not believe can be expressed in figures."

No Material Change in Price. There would be no material change in prices if Pevely Dairy Co. should decide to deal with the striking producers, Lynch declared, but "it would be easier to carry on our general program and establish in this market a comparatively new base and surplus plan regarded by experts a sound way to buy and a sound way to sell."

Lynch presented a statement showing that 12 co-operating St. Louis dairies and five neighboring towns bought 187,000,000 pounds of milk in the last 13 months, of which 70 per cent came from members, and $8,000,000 pounds was classified as base milk, bringing the farmer a price in proportion to its retail value as fluid milk. He admitted that the board of directors voted last winter to close the books when the membership reached 9000, but said he thought that decision had been reconsidered; at least the membership roll was still open. In one emergency, when the supply was three times the demand, he said, one members' meeting had voted to withhold "second surplus" milk as a temporary expedient, but withholding milk from the market had never been advocated by the association.

Tiedeman, questioned on the same points, said that he was in favor of an open market. He said that economic law provided a natural check against any monopolistic attempt to inflate prices on such commodities as milk, since such prices would stimulate over-production which would bring them down.

DR. FRANCIS O. DRAKE, 91, RETIRED PHYSICIAN, DIES

In Practice Here 49 Years; Funeral to Be Held at 3 P. M. Friday.

Dr. Francis O. Drake, 91 years old, a retired physician, died of the infirmities of age today at 1244 Temple place, the home of Charles W. Hopkins, a friend with whom he lived.

Dr. Drake was graduated from the old Missouri Medical College in 1866 and practiced here for 49 years before his retirement in 1918. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Drexel-Harral undertaking establishment, 1905 Union boulevard. Surviving are his brother, Edward J. Drake and a sister, Mrs. Margaret De Grot, of Washington. Dr. Drake never married.

31 RAIDS ON HANDBOOKS

Continuing the campaign against handbook establishments, police yesterday arrested 46 persons in 31 raids. Warrants charging gambling will be sought and the prisoners also were booked for Police Court for vagrancy.

MOTHER WILL TAKE 'SKI GIRL' TO CANADA

Indicates Latter's Two-Year-Old Son Will Accompany Them.

By the Associated Press.

MINEOLA, N. Y., Dec. 2.—May Gledhill, the Canadian "Ski Girl," whose collapse Saturday brought to light one of the strangest triangles, will probably be on her way back to Montreal with her mother soon. While her condition continues to improve, her mother, Mrs. Anne Peel Gledhill, who arrived at the hospital yesterday, said she would take her daughter to Canada when she had sufficiently recovered. Mrs. Gledhill also indicated she would take her daughter's 2-year-old son with them. The child is the son of William A. Conner, now in a Vermont prison for forgery, according to Conner's wife, Miss Gledhill and her child had been living in the Conner home with Mrs. Conner.

The strangeness of the situation was further illustrated today by the publication of letters from Conner to his wife and Miss Gledhill in which he professes love for both women.

Conner's messages, it was disclosed, were frequently mailed from prison in the same envelope. Two of them, which came in the same envelope, said:

"My dear wife: "I am looking forward to the time I get out of here, when you and I may start life anew. I know that I have caused you much grief and misery, but you must know that I regret it all. I know that you understand me and the world, and that you will find it in your big forgiving heart to forgive me."

Then, to Miss Gledhill: "My Darling May: "I am counting the days when I will be with you again. Separation from you is maddening. I love you. Soon we will be together again with our love."

Mrs. Conner said they showed her husband to be "out of rhythm with life."

A few years ago she and her husband were on a street in Montreal when Miss Gledhill passed crying. Conner, then a successful engineer, asked if he could be of assistance. They took her to their home and the strange affair began.

Miss Gledhill's collapse, physicians at the hospital said today, was caused seemingly by worry over fear of deportation to Canada. At first it had been believed she had taken poison.

MAN KILLED, TWO HURT WHEN AUTO UPSETS IN DITCH

Retired Chief Petty Officer of Navy Dies in Accident on Highway 61 in Jefferson County.

Joseph A. Casey, 35 years old, a retired chief petty officer of the Navy, was killed and two companions were injured early today when their automobile ran off United States Highway No. 61 and overturned in a ditch near Beck, Jefferson County, Mo.

The injured are Edward Flier, 22, son of Patrolman Jacob Flier, 7521 Virginia avenue, and Joseph Freund, 22, 153 West Lewis avenue, St. Louis county. Both are at Alexian Brothers' Hospital with skull injuries.

Flier and Freund were picked up by William Bradley an undertaker's employee of Festus, who was passing in an ambulance. Casey's body was taken to Imperial. At the hospital Flier told police that Freund was driving. He said he did not know what caused the accident.

Casey, who was unmarried, lived at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Locher, 428 West Davis street. He was retired from the navy on pension two years ago after 15 years' service. During the war he was in the troop transport service.

Two Men Hurt By Autos Which Do Not Stop

Garland Alexander, 2912 Thomas street, suffered internal injuries when struck by an automobile, the driver of which did not stop, at Leffingwell avenue and Thomas street at 5:30 a. m. today.

Dan J. Clune, 4040 Lincoln avenue, suffered fractures of the skull and leg when hit at 5 p. m. yesterday in front of 2611 North Sarah street by an automobile, the driver of which did not stop.

Mrs. Catherine Morton, 40, suffered a fractured pelvis and skull injuries last night when struck by an automobile at Manchester and Gregg avenues. Irvin Smith, 5432 Wells avenue, the driver, told police she, stepped into the path of his machine. Mrs. Morton, an employee of St. Vincent's Sanitarium, on St. Charles Rock road, is at De Paul Hospital.

575 APPLICATIONS FOR CHRISTMAS BASKETS IN DAY

Post-Dispatch Festival Headquarters Now Has 1042 Requests, Many of Them Being Pathetic.

The immensity of the task which the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival faces in its thirty-second year became unmistakably evident yesterday when 575 families applied for baskets of food for their Christmas dinners at the basket application headquarters, 1312 Pine street.

Busy as was the staff of workers who recorded applications on the opening day, Monday, they were even busier yesterday. More than 100 more applications were registered yesterday than were entered the first day. The two-day total now amounts to 1042.

By order of the Executive Committee of prominent St. Louisans which annually sponsors the Christmas Festival, not less than 5000 well-filled baskets containing chickens and everything else needed to make a complete Christmas dinner will be distributed to the neediest families throughout the city on Christmas eve.

The basket application headquarters will be open for two weeks, during which time all applications will be received on even terms. Every application will be cleared through the Christmas bureau to avoid duplications and every case investigated to make sure the recipient is worthy of being classed among the neediest 5000.

A week from today the annual distribution of donation lists will begin. As in the past, a trained staff of young women will take them to business concerns, stores, offices, factories and other places throughout St. Louis in order that all who desire to contribute to the fund may have the opportunity to do so.

While jobless fathers and widowed mothers applied at the basket headquarters for cheer on Christmas day, stacks of letters came, bringing the pathetic appeals for help which only those who are in desperate circumstances can write. There was, for example, the one written by a little girl whose first name is Mary. It reads as follows:

I am writing a few lines to ask you to send us a Christmas basket because we are very

TWO RECEIVERS APPOINTED FOR SKOURAS ENTERPRISES

Circuit Court Acts After Judge Becker Declines to Accept Post.

Jesse W. Barrett, former Attorney-General of Missouri, and Walter H. Nohl, an attorney, were appointed receivers for Skouras Bros. Enterprises, Inc., by Circuit Judge Hogan today, following the declaration of Judge William Dee Becker of the St. Louis Court of Appeals to act as receiver.

Harry C. Barker, an attorney, was appointed referee to act in an accounting action. Barrett and Nohl were required to furnish bond of $25,000 each. Under the Court order they also will become receivers for the Skouras Super-Theaters Co. should that concern fail to recognize their right to manage the Ambassador, Missouri and New Grand Central theaters.

Judge Becker, in declining to serve, wrote Judge Hogan that, while the appointment of a Judge as receiver was strictly within the law, he decided on reflection to decline.

DR. SCHACHT PAINFULLY HURT WHEN HIS AUTOMOBILE UPSETS

By the Associated Press. WAAREN, Mecklenburg, Germany, Dec. 2.—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank and internationally known financier, was injured today when the limousine in which he was riding turned over on a frozen road near here.

He was brought to a hospital here, where it was said his life was not in danger and he might be on his feet within two weeks. His son, Jens, was hurt slightly, but their chauffeur was not injured.

Dr. Schacht was unconscious for half an hour after the accident, but was said to be recovering comfortably. The physician at the hospital said: "His injuries apparently are not as serious as we first feared. Within 14 days we hope to see the patient sufficiently recovered to make his dismissal from the hospital possible. Besides painful gashes in the face, Dr. Schacht suffered contusions of the chest and pelvis."

The letter which Mary wrote was only one of many of its kind. Those who would like to help her and the thousands of other little boys and girls who will have a cheerless Christmas unless something is done for them can best do it by contributing to the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival fund.

Every cent of the fund will be used for one purpose—making Christmas a day of cheer for those who need it most.

EDWARD DAY RAE DIES FOLLOWING COLLAPSE

Insurance Man, 72 Years Old, Stricken When Downtown.

Edward Day Rae, long prominent in the insurance business in St. Louis, died this afternoon shortly after he had collapsed at 619 Pine street. Death was due to a lung hemorrhage, according to physicians at City Hospital, where he was taken.

Mr. Rae, who was 72 years old and lived at 5333 Bartmer avenue, had been in ill health for several years. He had been connected with the Travelers Insurance Co., of which he was district agent, for 40 years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Claire Steinwender Rae; a son, Elmer, of New York, and a daughter, Mrs. H. Ray Faigle, of London, England, who formerly was Mrs. Charles Burnham Squier of New York.

WHEELER TO SPONSOR INQUIRY IN WAGES ON U. S. PROJECTS

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, announced today he would sponsor congressional investigation of evasions of the local wage scale law on governmental projects.

Wheeler charged some general contractors on Government work are forcing subcontractors to defeat the law by taking back from workmen some of their wages. He plans a resolution calling for investigation of "this unwholesome practice," which he said is being carried on in numerous cities.

The purpose of the Government's national building construction program, Wheeler said, "is to give employment to workmen and to relieve distress and Congress provided the local wage scale in each community be maintained."

"When a subcontractor pays the local wage scale to workmen and at the end of each week forces the workmen to return a part of it in an envelope, the purpose of the Federal statutes is defeated."

Ten Years for Store Holdup. John Rice, 21 years old, a Negro, 1101 North Eleventh street, was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary today by Circuit Judge Peary on a plea of guilty of robbery with a deadly weapon. Rice admitted holding up two clerks at the furniture store of William Petty, 1320 North Eighth street, last Nov. 15. He obtained only 55 cents and a pistol and was met at the door by two policemen, who arrested him.

RALPH CAPONE ORDERED TO M'NEIL ISLAND PRISON

Government Moves to Separate Members of Gang Now in Leavenworth Penitentiary. WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The Government moved today to separate convicted members of Chicago's Capone gang and ordered Ralph Capone, brother of "Scarface" Al, transferred from the United States Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., to the United States Penitentiary at McNeil Island, Wash.

Ralph is serving three years at Leavenworth for income tax evasion and others of the Capone gang are imprisoned there on similar charges. Al is in jail in Chicago pending appeal from a 11-year sentence to Leavenworth for income tax evasion.

FAVORS PERMIT TO REPAIR 21ST STREET VIADUCT

Director Books to Recommend It; Work Will Take Five Months and Cost $50,000.

Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks announced today that he would recommend issuance of a permit to the Terminal Railroad Association and the Missouri Pacific Railroad to repair the Twenty-first street viaduct, which has been closed to traffic for three years.

The city had contended that corrosion from engines, and a wreck in which a train hit one of the viaduct supports, weakened the structure so that it was unsafe. The railroads' agreement to repair it follows long negotiations. The work, costing the roads about $50,000, will require about five months.

SLAYER, 17, DENIED CLEMENCY Gov. Emmerson Refuses to Commute Rockford Boys

Special to the Post-Dispatch. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 2.—Russell McWilliams, 17-year-old slayer of William Saylor, Rockford street car conductor, must die in the electric chair at Joliet Dec. 11. He was refused commutation of sentence today by Gov. Emmerson on the recommendation of the State Pardon Board.

In the youth's behalf, Clarence Darrow, criminal lawyer, came to Springfield to plead before the Pardon Board.

'SICK OF MOVIE VAMPIRES'

PLYMOUTH, England, Dec. 2.—"I think that decent people are sick to death of those vampire actresses, who in private life would be so boring that you would not talk to them for 10 minutes," Lady Astor said here when opening a motion picture house.

Take a leaf from the Industry's Book: "WATCH HUDSON!"

"—it has given rise throughout the industry year after year to the meaningful saying: Watch Hudson!"

IT is a truism that almost all progress proceeds from the independent mind.

This is as true in the automobile business as in the fields of literature or art.

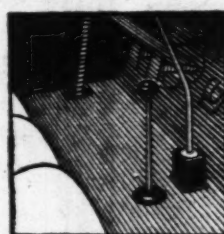

Startix, the Automatic Self-Starter—a new safety feature available at slight extra cost—makes Hudson and Essex motors stall-proof. Should you stall your motor on hills or in traffic, Startix restarts it—easily and automatically. Operated by the ignition lock, Startix starts your motor the moment you turn the switch, and keeps it going as long as the ignition is "on."

Thus Hudson—one of the few great independents flourishing in the motor car industry—justifies its success by a fertility of idea and invention unique even in this fast-moving business.

On the long roll of contributions to the present-day art of automobile building, Hudson has more than sixty important "first's" to its credit.

Hudson was first to build Sedan and Coach bodies, and perfected the machine-method enabling low-cost closed bodies in universal use today.

Selective Free Wheeling—Hudson and Essex drivers can "select" to free wheel or not, according to the road. On the straightaway and rolling highways you can enjoy the floating speed and gas-economy of free wheeling. Descending steep grades where you need the engine's extra braking power, a convenient control near the clutch lever throws the motor into conventional gear—instantly—without clashing. An optional feature.

Hudson was first to build the compensated inherently balanced crankshaft and the non-detonating cylinder head essential to the modern high-speed, high-compression engine.

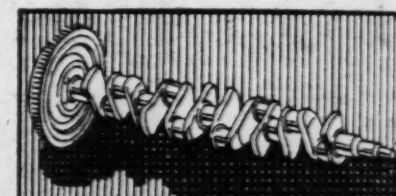

Hudson was first to use the splayed rear springs, the tapered frame, radiator shutters, aluminum pistons,

The Lubricated Cork Cushion Clutch is an exclusive patented feature of Hudson and Essex cars. A clutch is strictly a friction device. Cork is the finest friction material known. Lubrication is absolutely necessary to preserve the durability of any friction surface. Lubricated cork inserts in the Hudson and Essex clutch "cushion" as the clutch engages, giving a soft, velvety shift, without jar or chatter, especially when going from free wheeling into gear.

insulated bodies and a host of other features that are now standard high quality practice.

In one great factory so efficient that it has greater production capacity per foot of floor space than any other in the industry, Hudson has kept and is keeping steadily ahead of the procession.

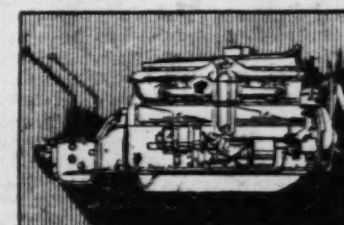

The famous Hudson compensated inherently balanced crankshaft is the most accurately balanced crankshaft in use today—so smooth and vibrationless in action that it eliminates the need for cushioning vibration as needed in the case of many other cars.

Do not think that this pioneering ability on the part of Hudson, this faculty of "pacing the industry," has gone unnoted and unheeded. On the contrary it has given rise throughout the industry year after year to the meaningful saying "Watch Hudson!"

The Hudson and Essex cars now being exhibited in our showrooms typify the wisdom of this in the engineering and structural advantages they reveal which will not be generally available on other cars for a year or more from now. Take a leaf from the book of the industry; examine Hudson and Essex before you decide what car to buy; to make a motor car purchase otherwise is literally to spend your good money with your eyes shut. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, Michigan.

Hudson and Essex high-speed engines are the highest compression power units in use today, operating on standard fuels. The eight-cylinder Hudson "Greater Eight" develops 87 horsepower at 3600 r.p.m.; the Essex "Super Six," 60 horsepower at 3300 r.p.m. So efficient is Hudson and Essex engine design, owners may use ordinary gasoline without annoyances from engine knock.

BLAMES REGULATORY FOR RAILWAYS' P

Bainbridge Colby Suggests pension of Governor Control During Cr

By the Associated Press.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 1.—Blame for the financial trouble of the railroads was placed on government control here last night by Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of the Wilson Cabinet, speaking before the National Bar Association. Colby said that the railroads are in a "worse condition than any other industry." "The railroads," he said, "are regulated to the point where stocks and bonds, once a safe form of investment, have become highly speculative." "Under such regulation," he continued, "many forms of initiative have been destroyed and the returns of the railroads have steadily until today their weakness."

BLAMES REGULATION FOR RAILWAYS' PLIGHT

Bainbridge Colby Suggests Suspension of Government Control During Crisis.

By the Associated Press.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 2. — Blame for the financial plight of the railroads was placed on Government control here last night by Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State in the Wilson Cabinet.

Speaking before the Rochester Bar Association, Colby said that Government by "excessive, unimportant and conflicting commission regulation is the principal reason that the railroads are now in so much worse condition than other major industries."

The railroads, he said, have been regulated to the point where their stocks and bonds, once among the safest forms of investment, have become highly speculative and dangerous.

"Under such regulation," he continued, "many forms of railroad initiative have been largely destroyed and the returns earned by the railroads have steadily declined until today their weakened condition has become a menace to the entire nation."

It is the Government's duty, Colby said, to withdraw all subsidies from every means of transportation, prohibit unfair discrimination by any of them, and, at least during the crisis through which the nation is passing, withdraw all regulation from the railroads. It would be reasonable, he held, to remove a great part of the regulatory burden now resting on the railroads, limiting it to a supervision of accounts, control over finance, safety regulations and discriminatory practices.

SOVIET EXPORTING MILLWORK

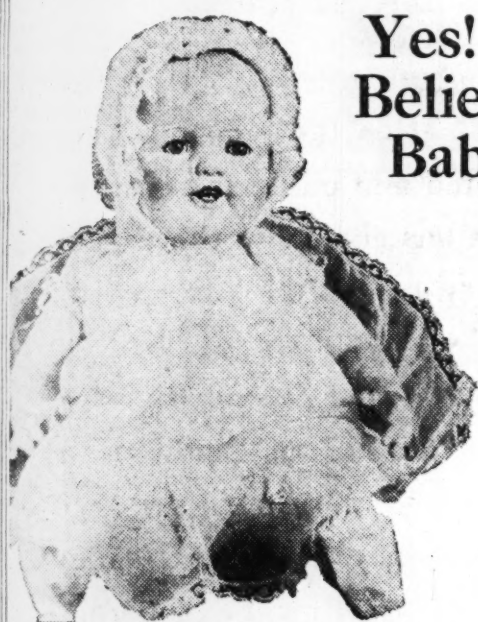

HULL, Dec. 2. — Soviet Russia is competing with America in exports of mill work to Great Britain. A shipment of 4000 Russian doors was received recently from aboard the steamer Cooperatiz, bringing the stock here to 16,000 doors. Heavy American consignments of mill work recently also have arrived for storage and sale.

BERLIN, Dec. 2. — Russian orders to German manufacturers amounted to $51,000,000 marks (roughly $202,620,000) for the first nine months of this year, as compared to $46,000,000 marks ($134,760,000) for the 12 months of 1930. The Russian orders were chiefly for general machinery, tool machines and electrical supplies.

Coated Tongue

and what it means

Why does the doctor "look at your tongue"? When it is coated, it shows your resistance against germs is below par. What is the cause?

Your body was meant to have an automatic protection in the form of a fluid (secretion of the glands of the colonic membranes) that fights and carries away the poisons from food waste. If this fluid fails, these dangerous poisons flood your system.

Your head aches, you catch cold easily, you feel dull and listless, and your tongue gets coated. Intestinal specialists say this self-poisoning is the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Your doctor will tell you that Nujol is the natural substance which is the nearest known duplication of the normal body secretion that keeps you poison-free. Nujol is colorless and tasteless and absolutely harmless.

Just try taking a spoonful of Nujol every day for a while and see how fine it makes you feel, helping your body to its natural freedom from poisons. It is the cheapest way to health and one of the surest. Why don't you get a bottle of Nujol at the drug store and begin to feel well!

NujolDO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING EARLY*X-RAY MEN TOLD ABOUT PROGRESS IN CANCER FIGHT

Surgery, Followed by Irradiation, Is Best Treatment, Says Report of Work Done at Mayo Clinic.

A review of 161 cases of cancer of the thyroid gland treated at the Mayo Clinic, at Rochester, Minn., in five years ending in 1925, was presented to members of the Radiological Society of North America today at their convention at Hotel Jefferson.

Dr. Robert E. Fricke and Dr. John Pemberton of the clinic staff said that of 107 cases in which surgical removal of the cancer was possible, 64 per cent of the persons were alive and well from five to 10 years later. In the other group of 54 cases, so far advanced that only medical treatment could be given, the survival rate was but 10 per cent.

The cases were selected, the doctors said, to indicate the results several years after treatment. The most efficient treatment, they concluded, was surgical excision of the cancerous growths, followed by irradiation.

Remark on "Cancerphobia."

Dr. Byron Jackson, Scranton, Pa., chairman of the Executive Committee of the Society, commenting on the necessity for early recognition of cancer, referred to criticisms that so much has been said of cancer in recent years that people are developing "cancerphobia."

"Good," he declared. "When the individual becomes so cancer conscious that a physical examination is requested once each year then, and not until then, can we expect to increase the rate of cancer cures."

Dr. Jackson said there was danger in the advice that physicians have been known to give: "Don't bother it until it bothers you." "If one waits that long," he said, "it is too long. Cancer is not a painful disease. There is practically never any pain or soreness in a beginning cancer. Certainly not at the stage when treatment can effect a cure."

"Cancers which are cured are cancers which have been discovered in their beginning, when they can be removed entirely. Cancers which kill are those which are allowed to grow with the hope that they will 'get better.' No cancer has been known to get well, or be cured of itself. Every cancer will eventually destroy the patient, if it is not itself destroyed."

X-Ray for Blackheads.

Dr. Benjamin H. Sherman, Hollywood, Cal., described the use of X-ray in treating blackheads and acne, an inflammatory disease of the sebaceous glands which attacks the face, chest and back. Twenty-seven years of experience, Dr. Sherman said, had indicated that the worse the condition the quicker tangible results are realized.

"It is now recognized," he said, "that the X-ray stops acne in one-third to one-fourth the time it could be checked in any other way. One should be very careful in regard to the length of time required for a cure, for in a disease so highly amenable to X-ray as acne it is easy to become careless and assure patients of a cure in two or three weeks when it may take much longer."

Dr. R. R. Sayers, chief surgeon of the United States Bureau of Mines, told the results of a survey undertaken by the bureau to learn how much radium is in use in the United States.

Preliminary reports, he said, show 84 grams of the substance in 250 hospitals and a small amount owned by individuals. Those administering the supply said they have immediate need for 110 more grams, about $5,000.00 worth at the present price of $50,000 a gram. Despite this shortage, Dr. G. Failla of Memorial Hospital, New York, estimated there was about $17,000 worth of radium in the stone and steel of the Empire State Building, and proportionate amounts in other buildings throughout the country. Radium is so active, he explained, that it is found almost everywhere in rocks and minerals, but in few places where it can be extracted.

Vitamin D Without Sunburn.

A remarkable ray of invisible light which produces Vitamin D without causing sunburn was described by Dr. F. R. Brackett of Smithsonian Institution at Washington. Ultra-violet rays, which have been the ordinary artificial source of Vitamin D, cause sunburn, but Dr. Brackett said minute laboratory measurements had indicated sunburn was caused by a ray slightly different in wave length from that of the vitamin-maker.

Seeking to establish standards to be followed in the application of X-rays and radium, a group of six specialists today discussed apparatus, measurement of radiation, dosage and protection for patients and operators.

Participating in the symposium were Dr. Arthur E. Brinkin, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Dr. Daniel M. Clark, Santa Barbara, Cal.; Dr. Albert K. Merchant of Temple University, Philadelphia; Dr. Howard B. Hunt of the University of Nebraska; Dr. H. Dabney Kerr of University Hospital, Iowa City, and Dr. Carl L. Gillies, Cedar Rapids.

EARLY DECISION BY GOV. ROLPH ON TOM MOONEY PLEA

If you please, from what State a man comes is of no consequence to his heart and justice as his end? I know I am not infallible in your excellency's thoughts, and if there be those who think I am, what distinguished company I find myself in—a former President of the United States, a member of the Senate, a Governor of Arizona, the distinguished president of the American Federation of Labor, the words of whose placard, your excellency, of those representing 1,000,000 Americans, from the Episcopal Bishop of Maine to the oldest and revered Rabbi Meyer Goldstein, the greatest array of humanity ever gathered under the sun on this American continent."

And then?
"The life of politics is hard. The target that one becomes from time to time is well known to your excellency. The price that one must pay in public service is terrible at times."

"And yet, you and I, and the likes of us, must find our compensation for what we do. Our compensation must come from those things that permit of satisfaction within us and the attainment of ideals and some kind of contribution to humanity that we only feel not while the lights are bright, but when the trumpets are sounding and when at night in solitude with the lights out and the pillow for an only companion, we find our pay in having made some contribution."

The Mayor recalled that he said to himself, "what can I add?" When he was asked to come on the mission and how he was finally persuaded by a telegram from Mooney's 83-year-old mother. After reaching California he called on Mrs. Mooney, and on Tom Mooney at San Quentin prison.

"And oh, your excellency," he said, "as I saw this old lady with whom you are familiar, when I first looked into her face and thought of one who had gone before, it made it possible for me today to address you, and only possible by great sacrifice. I wasn't satisfied. I knew enough about human nature to know that that kind of motherhood can never see any wrong in her boy."

"And so, to satisfy myself, I went down yonder and inside of the walls of San Quentin. I knew Mooney by reputation; I knew the record."

"But I wanted to see. The record was fine, the record was clear, the record was convincing that there had been a miscarriage of justice. And yet the terrible consequences of making any contribution, of being part to any kind of a movement that would take a despicable guilty one out of the hands of the law and away from just punishment that should be visited upon him."

"I wanted to satisfy myself before I made one word of plea to Your Excellency, look into his face with a prayer on my lips to divine Providence for guidance for a better understanding of human nature than I had ever had before, and I went."

"And what I saw I can't describe. But not in that face was there the capacity for such an atrocious crime. Not in that clear, yet sympathetic, kindly blue eye did I find the mirror of a soul so depraved as to be guilty of this crime. I saw gentility, obvious injustice. I saw a kindly man grown old in appearance inside of those walls. I heard a voice that was sympathetic itself and his eye looked straight forward, did not avert. I knew the record was right, I knew the judge was right, I knew the jury was right, had seen the light, I knew there had been a great miscarriage of justice."

Sapiro Closes the Case.
After Walsh's review of the case, it was left for Sapiro to close. He pointed out that the trial judge, the foreman of the jury, and the other living jurors have decided the conviction of Mooney was based on perjured testimony. Mooney, he said, should have had a new trial but that was now beyond the power of any court and only the Governor could undo the wrong done 11 years ago.

As the hearing proceeded, a small but turbulent crowd milled about the civic center in which the State building where the hearing was held. No sight of the banners calling for freedom for Mooney and criticizing Walker for New York police activities could be seen from the courtroom. No sound of the roar of the protest reached the chamber when police refused the demonstrators' request that a delegation be permitted to attend. Finally the police bundled a score or more of the demonstrators into patrol wagons and took them off to jail.

STOP THAT COLD

DRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to pneumonia—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

ACQUITTED OF HOLDUP ON INSTRUCTED VERDICT

Failure of Street Car Conductor to Identify Arthur Berne Leads to His Release.

Arthur Berne of 2506 Hebert street, who was charged with robbery under the Henry law in connection with the holdup of a Public Service Co. conductor last August was freed at his trial yesterday by an instructed verdict.

Circuit Judge Beck instructed the jurors at the close of the State's case that since the street car conductor, Hugh Milan, 2310 Whittier street, was unable to identify Berne positively they should return a verdict of not guilty. Milan was robbed of $19.95 by two masked men who held him up at the end of the Natural Bridge line. A co-defendant with Berne was acquitted by a jury Oct. 7.

VICE RING IN 3 STATES TRACED
Federal Officers Have Clues to Trafficking in Women.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—A dozen Federal crime officers today were on the trail of a vice ring which they think has been trafficking illegally in women in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Justice Department's Bureau of Investigation, disclosed a major investigation began when Federal agents picked up clues in a Maryland roadhouse after it was invaded by gangsters a week ago. The gunmen killed one and wounded four. Warrants charging four men with violation of the Mann act have been issued.

DOUBTS LAW CAN CURB BUSINESS UPS AND DOWNS

C. E. Mitchell, Chairman of Board of National City Bank, Witness at Hearing on Economic Council.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the National City Bank of New York, asserted today that fluctuations in business were inevitable. Before the Senate Manufacturers Subcommittee, considering proposals for a national economic council, the banker said all Americans "cherish the freedom" to develop their own business in their own way, and "this involves the right to make mistakes."

Despite the defects of this system, he did not believe the people would tolerate a change, though "there is no question that controlled economy would function with less friction."

Mitchell said he did not believe Congress had any intention to tell the American business men how much he could produce or the wage earner how much he could earn. He expressed doubt that any group of men could be assembled wise enough to steer the complicated economic machinery.

PUBLISHER TO WEB ACTRESS
 Horace Liveright and Elise Bartlett
 Porter Announce Engagement.
 NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Horace Liveright, book publisher and stage producer, and Elise Bartlett Porter, former actress, disclosed their engagement yesterday.

 They planned to marry in the spring—business permitting—they told friends.
 Miss Porter, known in the theater as Elise Bartlett, made her last stage appearance before she was married to Joseph Schildkraut, the actor, in 1922. Their marriage ended in divorce last year. Liveright's first marriage was dissolved by divorce in 1928. Custody of his two children was given his first wife.

MCDONALD OPENS HOUSE DEBATE ON INDIAN PROBLEM

Predicts Dominion Status
Some Day and Says
Country Does Not Want Complete Independence.

By the Associated Press.
 LONDON, Dec. 2.—Prime Minister MacDonald told the House of Commons today that India does not want complete independence. He made this assertion in a speech opening a two-day debate on the Indian problem following the termination of the second round table conference yesterday.

He declared that one day India might become a dominion in the sense defined by the Statute of Westminster—that is with complete legislative independence of the British Parliament.

James Maxton, left wing Labor member, interrupted to say it would be difficult for India to get complete independence.

"India does not want it," the Prime Minister retorted.

Dealing in advance with the amendment that will be moved by Winston Churchill—which will stipulate that nothing in the Government's policy commit Parliament to the establishment in India of a dominion constitution—Mac-Donald set forth his ideas on how the Statute of Westminster might be applied.

"The question of application of the statute, though not dealt with here and not in contemplation by the Government, is not barred forever," he said.

Statute of Agreement.

"If and when India comes under it, it will be precisely with the same consideration and the same machinery and the same methods by which Canada, Australia and New Zealand find themselves in it today."

The Prime Minister declared it was the Government's intention to lead India to a position where it could make itself responsible for its own government.

Referring to statements in this sense made in successive Parliaments, he said, "those statements did not always amount to pledges.

"They did not go beyond a statement of intention."

"But this House and no member of this House as a Representative can throw off his shoulders responsibility for carrying into effect, when the opportunity arises from time to time, those declarations of intention."

Formally moving that the House approve the Government's Indian policy, as set forth in his address at the conclusion of the round table conference, the Prime Minister explained his speech had the approval of the entire National Government.

"The great value of the round table conference is that it enabled everyone here to understand what was in the Indian mind," he continued.

Rule in Bengal Tightened.

The Viceroy of India is preparing to handle any new subversive movement by Gandhi followers in the Bengal district with an iron fist. Immediate death or deportation for life is the penalty prescribed under new ordinances in Bengal for those who challenge
 King George's rule or attempt political crimes.

The army, police and even civilians may be called on under these new regulations to assist in the suppression of any rebellious moves on the part of Indian subjects.

While these repressive measures apply for the present only to the Bengal Province, the Government is prepared if necessary to extend them to all India.

"What gives me the greatest concern," said Mahatma Gandhi last night, "is not the outcome of the round table conference, but the grave events in India where the Government has been stamped into panic by a few political crimes committed by irresponsible Indian youths thirsting for their country's freedom. The extraordinary powers of repression with which the Bengal Government has armed itself seem to me to be wholly inconsistent with the desire expressed at the round table conference today to part with power and give India real freedom."

BLOOD OF EX-VICTIM OF TULAREMIA SOUGHT

Needed for Treatment of W. H. Daniels, Suffering From Rabbit Fever.

An appeal for blood from a former sufferer from tularemia, a disease contracted through handling infected rabbits, has been made in behalf of William E. Daniels, who is suffering from the disease at his home, 3016 Brent avenue, Maplewood.

Dr. R. E. Gaston of Webster Groves, who is treating Daniels, wants the blood for a serum, and says about a pint will be sufficient to counteract the effect of the disease. Two volunteers were found, but their symptoms had been so weakened by tularemia that it was not considered advisable to take blood from them.

Daniels, who is 36 years old, shot several rabbits on Nov. 15. In cleaning them, he used the cleaning knife to remove a splinter from his hand. A week later he became ill and was taken to St. Louis County Hospital, where the case was diagnosed as tularemia. He was taken to his home yesterday.

SIX DEER HUNTERS KILLED Another Man Missing at Close of Season in Michigan.

By the Associated Press. MARQUETTE, Mich., Dec. 2.—The 1931 Michigan deer hunting season ended Monday midnight with a total of six men killed and one man unaccounted for. The missing hunter is Paul McDowell of Muskegon Heights, who disappeared Nov. 15 in woods north of Ironwood. Hope of finding him has been abandoned.

By the Associated Press. HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 2.—Three hunters were killed and six wounded yesterday, as thousands of sportsmen took to the Pennsylvania woods to bag deer on the first day of the season. One man, Charles A. Rouby, Cleveland, fell dead of a heart attack. Paul P. Karl of Altoona was killed at Spruce Creek when his weapon went off accidentally as he clambered over a fence. Chester Liveri of Bethlehem died after being shot in the abdomen near White Haven. Adam Yuhra of West Hazelton was killed at Hickory Run.

DANGER IN TOO MUCH BLOWING!

Clear Nasal Passages with Mentholatum

Mother, noseblowing is often carried too far. And then it causes injury to delicate membranes. When the child's nose is clogged up, the less blowing the better. Use Mentholatum instead. A little in each nostril will clear the air passages. It will also soothe irritated membranes. To overcome the cold more quickly also rub Mentholatum briskly on the child's back, chest, neck and nose. That will draw more blood to the surface and help prevent inflammation of the breathing passages. In jars and tubes, 30c. Three times as much in large jars, 60c.

YEAR'S MORATORIUM ON DUCKS

SUGGESTED TO U. S. SPORTSMEN

Speaker Tells American Game Association That Mississippi Valley Situation Is Acute.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—A one year's closed season on duck shooting as a means of conserving the wild fowl was suggested to the American Game Association yesterday.

More than 400 officers of various game organizations heard Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, president of the National Association of Audubon Societies, declare the situation in the Mississippi Valley so acute that renewed pleas for a Government moratorium on ducks are necessary.

He asked that wealthy conservationists be enlisted to obtain needed feeding grounds. A. E. Etter, game commissioner, Saskatchewan, suggested that munitions and weapon makers provide the funds to restore such sanctuaries.

Paul G. Redington, chief of the United States Biological Survey, said heavy concentration of ducks in four or five places along the Illinois River this fall had led to the opinion that no shortage existed, whereas a survey showed only about one-fourth of the usual number had visited the area. He said a distinct shortage of water fowl had arisen.

A Federal hunting tax of $1, in addition to a hunting license fee, for purchase of water fowl refuges was discussed at the conference today.

SMITH CANVASSES NEIGHBORS

FOR NEW YORK CHARITY FUND

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Alfred E. Smith, puffing a black cigar, but wearing a felt hat instead of the brown derby, trudged through his Greenwich Village neighborhood for the unemployed today.

Into I. L. Romanoff's drug store he popped so suddenly that an old gentleman sitting at the soda fountain spilled a glass of water on the ex-Governor's trousers leg.

"I'm from the Emergency Unemployment Fund," boomed Smith's voice. "I came to see if you wouldn't help out the hungry folks, Mr. Romanoff."

"I guess I can spare a fiver, Governor," the druggist said.

To a delicatessen proprietor next door the approach was a little different.

"Your neighbor gave $5. What can you do?" Smith asked with a smile.

"Well, I guess I can double that," said the man.

"That's dandy. I always liked a delicatessen. It's the Lord's work, feeding people."

There were other donations, including $3 from a laundry man. And there were no refusals. It was a test of the house-to-house canvassing possibilities of a city-wide committee Smith heads.

WOMAN LOSES POINT IN SUIT

TO GET ERLANGER'S ESTATE

Court Restricts Testimony of Former Chorus Girls Who Says She Is Common Law Wife.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Charlotte M. Fixel, former chorus girl, who has brought an action to have herself declared the common-law wife of the late Abraham L. Erlanger, today was denied the right to testify concerning her personal relations with the theatrical producer.

Surrogate O'Brien sustained the objection of Isidor J. Kresel, attorney for the estate, that as a contestant of Erlanger's will she was not entitled to testify concerning "any personal transactions with the decedent, either directly, indirectly or inferentially."

Numerous witnesses have testified during the six weeks the hearing has been in progress that Miss Fixel was known to them as Mrs. Erlanger during a period ranging up to 15 years before Erlanger's death on March 7, 1930.

13TH DAY OF HICCUGHING

Serum Puts Victim to Sleep But Fails to Cure.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT VERNON, O., Dec. 2.—An injection of serum failed to cure the protracted hiccupping attack that has weakened Carl Horlacher, and his physician said he probably would be removed to a Columbus Hospital today for observation and further treatment. The serum was injected yesterday and permitted Horlacher to sleep for the first time in 13 days, but when he awoke last night the spasms resumed. However, he obtained much needed rest. Horlacher today began his thirteenth day of hiccupping.

ROBBER SHOT BY POLICE IN RUNNING FIGHT DIES

William Lampkin, Negro, Hit on Head With Brick When Cornered.

William Lampkin, 39 years old, a Negro, died at City Hospital No. 2 last night of bullet wounds and skull injuries suffered last Thursday when he exchanged shots with policemen who sought to arrest him for holding up John Miller, a grocer, 2950 Sheridan avenue.

Lampkin was pursued through alleys and yards and cornered behind an asphalt in the rear of 2929 Dickson street. When he continued to fire at the officers, one of them tore a brick from the asphalt and struck him on the head. It was found he had been shot through both legs during the chase.

Miller was held up in his store and robbed of $9 and then marched to his home near by, where the robber demanded they tell him where money was hidden in the store. They told him to look in the bean bin, and he departed. Miller freed himself and telephoned police. Patrolmen Pelker, Powell and Bellar arrived on the scene in a scout car and saw the Negro run from the store, where he had obtained $23 from the hiding place.

Another Negro was arrested on Lampkin's assertion that he had helped plan the holdup, but he denies the charge. Lampkin, a waiter, lived at 1347A North Garrison avenue, several doors from the Miller home.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known as their olive color. 15c, 50c, 60c.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling of New York, noted pulpit and radio speaker, was guest of honor at a luncheon at Hotel Statler today in connection with the three-day meetings of the Allied Forces for Prohibition. Dr. Poling, a veteran prohibition speaker, was the speaker at the final meeting of the St. Louis rally, this afternoon and tonight in Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards.

Dr. Poling, who was the successor of the late Dr. Francis E. Clark as head of the international Christian Endeavor movement, spoke at the luncheon on "Have Faith in America." The theme of tonight's meeting will be "Mobilizing for Victory."

The Rev. Dr. Ira Landrith of Indiana Lake, Ind., in his address last night, replied to Maj. Albert Bond Lambert of St. Louis, who asked that the Allied Dry Campaigners express their views on the proposal to legalize the manufacture of beer, as an end of the employment and taxation measure. He also sent Maj. Lambert a letter expressing his views.

"The first nine years of prohibition," Dr. Landrith said, "covered a period of America's greatest prosperity, and part of the time during that period prohibition almost enforced itself. Wealthy matrons had to reduce the number of their servants or provide them with more garage space. More recently the wets have pursued a determined policy of violation and nullification. It would, therefore, appear that wet lawlessness, and not prohibition, might be responsible for the financial depression."

"Prior to prohibition the United States spent in five years for liquor enough money to buy all the gold in the world. For the nine years ending in 1929, Great Britain's income bill was less than one-half the time the gold reserve of civilization. Britain's yearly liquor bill would have built the Panama Canal, paid the entire cost of the Boulder Dam, taken care of its own deficit of $100,000,000, and left at least $50,000,000 for its debt."

Assaults Wets' Arithmetic.
"But the arithmeticians of the wet propagandists tell us that the return of the breweries and distilleries will bring prosperity and employment. One more or less distinguished financier and industrialist, Edward F. Hutton, who need not pay for this advertisement, says, 'At least a million men will be employed in the beer business. It will employ a million men more than it does now.'"

SAYS CO-OPERATION OF U. S. AND STATES IS NEEDED TO REGULATE POWER INDUSTRY

Federal Commission Reports Heavier Capital

Transportation.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
201-205 Kellogg Building.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Significant facts regarding the remarkable growth of the power industry, as well as a statement of the commission's attitude toward regulation, are given in the eleventh annual report of the Federal Power Commission to Congress, made public today.

As to regulation, the commission says there must be full co-operation between the states and the Federal Government. The policy by which it is guided is thus stated: "The power industry is today neither exclusively local nor exclusively national, and if complete and effective supervision is to be had it must be had through co-operation of both local and national control. To that end it is the desire of this commission to enforce fully and administer the terms of the Federal power act in closest co-operation with state commissions, acting entirely free from the prejudices which have grown up around the subject of states' rights as a political issue, and especially in the mutual confidence that there is to be no undue overreaching or usurpation of power. Such co-operation must recognize as its basic principle the real economic nature of the business with which it is dealing, that it is local in certain phases of its operation and national in other phases, and that the whole must be brought under some form of complete public governmental control and regulation which should bring about not only better service and lower rates, but establish the industry itself in such financial position that investment therein is safe and not speculative and thus effectively preserve and promote the public interest."

Bagnell Dam Mentioned.
In listing the notable water power projects which have been brought to substantial completion during the year, the commission calls special attention to the Bagnell development of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. on the Osage River in Missouri. The reservoir of the Bagnell development is about 110 miles long by river and has a shore line of over 240 miles.

The commission notes that in the past decade the invested capital of the light and power industry has grown from less than $5,000,000,000 to more than $12,000,000,000, an increase of about 150 per cent. By contrast, that of the Class I railroads has grown from under $20,000,000,000 to more than $25,000,000,000, or less than 30 per cent.

Further comparing the two industries, the commission says: "With this relative growth in mind, it will be readily understood that for the last five years the power companies have been the larger capital expenditures than the transportation companies, although only so recently as 1923 the railroads spent for this purpose more than $1,000,000,000 in a single year while power and light companies spent only about $600,000,000."

"Equally significant is the fact that while there has been little change in the statistics of service rendered by the railroads during the past 10 years, other than to reflect the general trend of business for the industry, the statistics for the power and light industry for the same period indicate an almost uninterrupted growth. Whether measured by generating capacity, sales of energy, or revenues earned, the increase in the 10 years has been 100 per cent or more."

JAPANESE DEMAND CHANG RELINQUISH RULE IN CHINCHOW

Insistence Government as Well as Troops Withdraw Behind Great Wall Newly Alarms League.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Dec. 2.—News that the Japanese Government was insisting that Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang's Government be withdrawn from Chinchow behind the Great Wall as well as his troops, threw new alarm into League quarters this afternoon.

This development was regarded as a threat to the hopes for an early agreement on the Council resolution on plans for a pacific settlement of the Chinese-Japanese conflict in Manchuria through a commission of inquiry, and a neutral zone.

A Japanese spokesman told the Associated Press that "The Council is not taking seriously our demand about the Chinese troops withdrawing from Chinchow, but we mean business."

The Japanese delegation to the League up to the present has said nothing about the necessity of the Chinese civil government evacuating Chinchow. The announcement came in a press report from Tokyo and caused sharp surprise.

The Japanese proposal was described by the Chinese representative as another step by Japan to establish a puppet government which would be subservient to Tokyo.

Some League officials regard the Chinchow demand as almost incredible. It is understood such a demand would be entirely unacceptable to the Chinese.

Evacuation of Chinchow is advanced by the Japanese in connection with the provision for a truce in hostilities. A powerful regime cannot be guaranteed, they contend, unless Chinese military forces clear out of Manchuria.

The Japanese press the same demand in connection with the demand for a truce in hostilities. Dr. Alfred Szé maintains evacuation behind the Great Wall is proposed by the Chinese only upon condition that the Great Powers send military detachments to that area.

WIDOW OF CAPTAIN BOY-ED RESTORED TO U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Daughter of Late Bishop Mackay-Smith Lived in Germany After War-time Romance.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Mrs. Virginia Grace Mackay-Smith Boy-Ed, whose wartime romance revolved around a German officer suspected of spying and sabotage, was restored to American citizenship yesterday.

Mrs. Boy-Ed, a slim, patrician figure, blonde and blue-eyed, rose in Naturalization Court and took citizenship in company with a Turk, a Greek, a Scotch lass, and a German-born woman.

The Captain was recalled in December, 1915, at the request of the State Department, and their marriage was once postponed by interception of a message from Germany by the American Secret Service, which thought the communication to be in code. It was, in reality, permission for the German Captain to marry the American girl, signed by his chief, Grand Admiral Von Tirpitz.

EX-KING ALFONSO BLOKS PLAN OF SON TO ELOPE

Don Jaime de Bourbon Had Arranged to Marry Spanish Girl.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Dec. 2.—The plans of Don Jaime de Bourbon, second son of former King Alfonso, to elope and marry an unidentified Spanish girl have been thwarted by his parents. It was authoritatively learned today.

Persons close to the royal family said Don Jaime told his folks several days ago he would be absent from the home at Fontainebleau a few days on a "little excursion," whereas he intended to be married secretly at Bayonne early this week.

Learning that complete papers had been prepared for the marriage, friends of the family notified Queen Victoria and she in turn appealed to Alfonso. He insisted that Don Jaime write the girl a letter of renunciation.

FOOD DICTATOR IN GERMANY EXPECTED TO BE NAMED

Official From Ministry of Economics Would Control Wages and Industrial Output.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Dec. 2.—Appointment of a "food dictator" for Germany was forecast in Government circles today.

No definite date has been set for the appointment, but it was said the official would probably come from the Ministry of Economics and be empowered to reduce wages and costs of industrial and food products. He would also have the power, it was said, to prevent wage cuts in factories, a similar saving were passed along to the consumer.

Representative Henry T. Rainey, outstanding candidate for the Democratic floor leader, today voiced the opinion that the prohibition question should be disposed of as early as possible to make way for economic issues. Rainey has always voted dry, but favors a referendum on the eighteenth amendment.

LEADERS EXPECT PROHIBITION VOTE IN NEXT CONGRESS

Watson Thinks Issue Is Sure to Be Raised—Says Senate Is "Overwhelmingly Dry."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—A congressional vote on prohibition, long demanded by opponents of the national law and resisted by its friends, is in sight for the coming session. Only today, Senator Watson, leader of the Republicans—promised a showdown in that chamber. Members of both parties in the House already were expecting the new lineup there to result in rules under which a vote can be forced.

Senator Watson predicted a roll call of the new Senate would show it is "overwhelmingly dry."

He agreed with sentiment widely expressed in both parties that economic questions should be given precedence this session, but told anti-prohibition advocates that if a temperance measure of any kind reached the Senate floor, he would not stand in the way of a vote.

"You can't prevent the subject coming up, in my judgment," he declared.

Senator Bingham (Rep.), Connecticut, is going to push a prohibition referendum resolution providing for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

All prohibition legislation must first run the gauntlet of the Judiciary Committee headed by Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska.

The anti-prohibitionists in the House especially desire a vote to place candidates for Congress on record in time for the 1932 campaign.

Many dries recognize that prohibition is the important issue in the minds of a large part of the population and that until a vote is had these persons will not give economic issues as much consideration as otherwise.

Rainey, outstanding candidate for the Democratic floor leader, today voiced the opinion that the prohibition question should be disposed of as early as possible to make way for economic issues. NEW U. S. SENATOR

W. WARREN BARBOUR.
NEW JERSEY'S NEW SENATOR
ONCE A CHAMPION BOXER

By the Associated Press.
TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 2.—William Warren Barbour, wealthy manufacturer and tariff advocate, whose boxing skill once won praise from James J. Corbett, was named United States Senator yesterday by Gov. Morgan F. Larson to succeed the late Dwight W. Morrow.

Barbour, an active Republican, is 43 years old and a former Mayor of Rumson. Informed of his appointment and asked if he would enter the election next year, Barbour said the man "who accepts the job should be willing to run in the Republican primary next year."

He is chairman of the Finance Committee of the Republican State Committee and treasurer of the American Tariff League. His income is derived chiefly from the Lanen Thread Co. of Paterson, of which he is president.

In his early twenties he was the amateur heavyweight champion of the world. He won the honor in the national tournament of the Amateur Athletic Union in Boston in 1914 and a newspaper clipping of the day called him a "sensation of one year's time," said Gentleman Jim Corbett, "I could take that fellow and have him beat Jack Johnson."

NEW JERSEY VOTE GIVES DEMOCRATS 219 IN THE HOUSE

Percy H. Stewart Wins in Special Election, Overturning Normal Republican Lead of 35,000.

By the Associated Press.
ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 2.—Percy H. Stewart (Dem.), was elected to Congress yesterday to fill the vacancy on the fifth New Jersey district caused by the death of Ernest R. Ackerman (Rep.).

The result is a gain of one vote for the wet bloc in Congress. Ackerman was a drier. Stewart campaigned on a platform calling for modification of the eighteenth amendment to permit light wines and beer. He returned a normal Republican plurality of 35,000. Complete unofficial returns give him 21,567 votes to 29,655 for Donald McLean (Rep.).

Condemned Hoover Policies.
Stewart campaigned on a platform asking for repudiation of the administrative policies of President Hoover. His fight paralleled in many respects the successful contest waged early last month by A. Harry Moore, Democratic Governor-elect. Moore also asked for repudiation of the national administration and won by an unprecedented plurality of 230,053 votes. Moore carried the Fifth District by approximately 11,000.

McLean, who like Stewart favored modification of the eighteenth amendment to permit light wines and beer, had asked the voters to elect him as indorsement of President Hoover and the national Republican program.

The vote was comparatively light, only about half as many persons going to the polls as participated in the election last year in which Ackerman was sent to Washington for seventh time by 35,000 plurality.

The last Democrat to represent the Fifth District in Congress was William B. Tuttle Jr., of Elizabeth, who was carried in by Wood.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Founded by JOSEPH PULITZER
December 12, 1878Published by
The Pulitzer Publishing Company
Twelfth Boulevard and Olive Street

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its editorial principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to battle wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

JOSEPH PULITZER.
April 10, 1907.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

"The Country's Flight."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOU have added a cubit to your journalistic stature. Your publication of Charles G. Ross' article, "The Country's Flight," was a courageous and heartening thing to do. Courageous, because the unusual length of the article and the extraordinary thoroughness and frankness of the treatment of such a highly controversial subject constitute a distinct departure from accepted newspaper practice. Heartening, because it indicates a possibility that the press may rise to a leadership of thought and opinion that will bring about an orderly solution of problems, the like of which have hitherto been resolved in violence and bloodshed.

THAD SNOW.
Charleston, Mo.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
GOD bless you for printing that remarkable article of Charles G. Ross, "The Country's Flight," in your Sunday edition. It should be put in the hands of every man and woman in America and used as a text book in all our high schools and colleges.

The editorial section of the Post-Dispatch has always ranked high, but such work as this puts you at the top of the list. More power to you.

THOMAS Q. DIX.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE POST-DISPATCH and Charles G. Ross are to be commended and congratulated upon the fine and masterful manner in which our present economic situation was set forth in Sunday's edition under the caption, "The Country's Flight."

As the result of publishing the article, the Post-Dispatch must be recognized as one of the greatest leaders in contemporary thought in the State and in the nation.

The article clearly sets out just what is wrong in our scheme of affairs. Our President, Congressmen, the Governors of the several states, as well as our industrial leaders, should carefully study the article, as contains not only a good food for thought but charts a course that, if followed, will solve many of the questions that now perplex the American people and nation.

The article should mark the turning of the tide in favor of sound constructive economics in our political and industrial life.

A Missing Concert.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
LOST, strayed or stolen—One concert of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Toscanini, scheduled for 2 p. m. last Sunday over KMOX. Information leading to its whereabouts will be rewarded with a carload of saxophones and a ship's cargo of mammy songs.

R. C.

In the Name of Charity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE untiring efforts at charity that are being put forth to scale the heights of the Red Cross and other organizations are confusing to a fuzzer like me. For example, a headline of a few days ago read: "Boston Charity Game (Boston College-Holy Cross) Shows $21,000 Loss." It appears that "expenses of the game included guarantees of $30,000 to each of the two teams, $15,000 to the Boston Red Sox for rental of Fenway Park, where the game was to have been played originally (it was played at the Harvard stadium), $30,000 for operating the stadium and $15,000 for printing of tickets, advertising and incidentals, a total of $96,000." Gross receipts, $75,000—loss, $21,000. Further: "Under the arrangement, the teams were to receive the proceeds from 22,000 tickets sold, which was the average attendance at the games during the past 10 years. The crowd this year was under normal."

Now, in no way do I mean to praise or censure such action, but when $60,000 is paid for two amateur football teams for one game out of which the players receive only honor, if any, and $15,000 rental is paid for a park in which the game was not played, I only say I become confused and wish to ask in all sincerity, "What in the deuce do they mean when they say 'charity'?"

D. L. W.

A Tale With a Moral.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
EVEN our Judges are not free from directing a sliver of humor at prohibition. The other day in the Court of Criminal Correction a defendant was charged with possession of intoxicating liquor. Upon motion of the defense attorney, the suppression of the evidence was sustained. The able jurist remarked that these cases, the farcical result of prohibition, were cluttering our dockets, and without further inquiry dismissed the defendant. Following which, another defendant, charged with a like offense, took the stand. Evidence of his possession was introduced and, upon inquiry, it was determined that the quality of this hooch was potentially poisonous. With the comment that makers of this quality of liquor should be penalized, his honor assessed a heavy fine. The moral I gathered was: If you must make liquor, see that it's of good quality.

OBSERVANT.

PARIS PRESS INDORSES A RIOT.

The riot which broke up the unofficial world peace meeting in Paris last week was a shameful exhibition of hoodlumism. Such eminent speakers as former Ambassador Houghton, Lord Cecil, Vittorio Scialoja and Edouard Herriot were howled down; a radio speech by Senator Borah was hooted, scores were injured in the fighting and police finally cleared the hall. The demonstration apparently was organized, not spontaneous. Its leaders, youthful members of clubs with Fascist, Royalist and nationalist tendencies, packed the hall and systematically broke up the meeting. Although the traditional French politeness, for which Chairman Herriot appealed in vain, was sadly missing, the incident reflects on only a small sector of the French people. However, the attitude of the French press, giving approval to the disturbance after bitterly attacking the meeting before it began, is a gloomy omen for hopes of disarmament and peace.

Paris newspaper comment, as cabled to the New York Times, either praises the rioters, gives no report of the meeting or, as with the semi-official Temps, prints a strictly news account and plays down the violence. Only the Socialist Populaire expresses regret. The Royalist L'Action Francaise asserts it was "a beautiful lesson . . . to pacifists of all nations." The conservative Echo de Paris says: "The obstructions were right." The highly nationalist Ami du Peuple calls the affair "an admirable, comforting and useful evening." All newspapers accuse the 362 peace societies of 30 countries, who organized the meeting, of starting the trouble by holding their session in Paris at a time when French opinion could only resent it as interference. Some editors profess to see in it a plot to disarm and destroy France, and one says the campaign is "purely of German manufacture."

This illustrates our comment of a few weeks ago, based on a Current History article by Robert Dell, regarding the corruption and jingoism of the French press. That these papers could become so agitated over a peace meeting, which deserved, at the least, respectful tolerance, shows the desperate game their backers are playing. We do not believe that the French people, convinced though they may be of the need for security first, would refuse even to hear disarmament speeches, were not militaristic propaganda constantly at work on them. The people, who pay the frightful toll of lives and treasure imposed by war machines, would join in peace discussions if given a chance for independent thought. The press, which has played so important a part in furthering the cause of peace in other lands, is falling in this function in France. It will bear a terrific responsibility should French stubbornness wreck the Geneva conference.

A PICTURE FOR MISSOURI.

Whether or not the portrait of Benjamin Howard, first territorial Governor of Missouri, just purchased for $1000 by the State Historical Society, proves to be the work of Gilbert Stuart, the society is to be commended; it has done the thing historical societies are designed to do. History says little enough about this Virginia-born frontier soldier and Congressman. Likenesses of him are rare still. He resigned a Kentucky seat in the House to accept Jefferson's appointment as Governor of the newly acquired Upper Louisiana Territory. During his administration, the area's name was changed to Missouri Territory, thus opening the way for the name which was to be assumed on the entry of Missouri into the Union. As proclaimer of the election to choose the territory's first delegate to Congress and members of the Territorial Legislature, he brought representative government to this region. The portrait, which for 130 years belonged to a West Virginia family, henceforth will hang in the State Capitol, where, by the fitness of things, it belongs.

AGAINST CHANGING FEDERAL RESERVE ACT.

Mr. Hoover's proposal, made in his statement of Oct. 7, that the eligibility provisions of the Federal Reserve Act be broadened, has not been entertained sympathetically by the Federal Reserve banks. Responding to a questionnaire sent out by a Senate subcommittee, a majority of the banks declare themselves against changing the eligibility provisions. It is the opinion of many fiscal authorities that to admit for rediscount at Federal Reserve banks securities not now thus honored would materially alter the fundamental purpose of the Federal Reserve Act. That act was designed to provide banks with funds to meet seasonal and emergency needs and, it therefore, provided that commercial paper of a maturity of 90 days or less should be eligible for rediscount. This paper consists of notes, drafts and bills of exchange, used for the production, purchasing or marketing of goods. It is highly liquid and thus ideally suited to reserve bank lending purposes. After the war, the Federal Reserve Act was broadened to make eligible for rediscount certain classes of agricultural paper, with a maturity of not more than nine months.

There are, of course, numerous types of securities of superior quality, such as state and municipal bonds, which are not eligible to rediscount at the Federal Reserve banks. But the essence of the reserve idea is to avoid tying up money in long-term securities, however good they might be, and to maintain a large supply of floating credit. Its presence is always a temptation, especially in times like these, for new ideas as to its use, but wisdom dictates subjecting to the most searching scrutiny any proposal to change an act which has worked remarkably well since its enactment in 1914.

CHAPLIN GETS A BARGAIN.

Charlie Chaplin has gracefully withdrawn from the suit brought by his former press agent, Miss May Shepherd, by agreeing to pay $320, the amount of salary she said was due. Too many great personages were being mentioned in court, Chaplin said, so he agreed to judgment to spare their blushes. Hunting up personages and getting dates with them for Chaplin seems to have been the greater part of Miss Shepherd's publicity duties. The actor accepted the engagements, though he said he knew of no financial arrangements with her.

A glance at Chaplin's doings since he went to Europe last spring shows that his press agent was a getter of remarkable talents. Among the Chaplin hosts have been: Premier MacDonald, Briand (Lunch), the inevitable Lady Astor, Gandhi (discourse on gadgets), Bernard Shaw (who remarked later, "The little fellow is a genius"), Count de Brissac, Duke of Westminster (boar hunt), Prof. Einstein, Princess Murat, King of the Belgians (25 minutes), Amy Johnson, aviatrix, Henri Cochet (who looped the loop around the Eiffel Tower), and French Legion of Honor and Academy (decorations). And only this week, newspaper readers were treated to a picture of Mr. Chaplin and the Prince of Wales at dinner, a bottle of champagne between them and a handsome peeress on either side.

Counting these and lesser celebrities, we estimate Mr. Chaplin's overhead at $2.47 per personage. It was the cheapest lion hunt in all history.

AT THE DRY RALLY.

Nothing new has been said at the local rally of the Allied Forces for Prohibition. The speakers are all eloquently sure that prohibition is a grand thing and the eighteenth amendment will never be repealed. That is the sum of their efforts, embellished, of course, with rhetorical decorations and bristling now and then with fulminations. There is no doubt, though, that the crusaders are having a fine time, and anyone who can get any fun out of anything as the cards are now running is quite welcome to it, we reckon.

Just the same, it does seem as if prohibition leaders might find things to do now other than strutting pearls around the throat of their hobby and shouting that it is here to stay. Prohibition, with all respect to Mr. Hoover, may not be accurately characterized a noble experiment. It is no longer a project to be festooned with adulation and rosy prophecy. It is legally a fait accompli. Prohibition has a past. How has it met the high expectations with which it was launched? That is a fair and competent question, in our opinion, for an occasion like the present to consider searchingly and discuss openly.

Our dry friends could say one thing with which we should cordially agree, namely, that prohibition is not responsible for the depression. To be sure, they do say it, but they don't say it with the ringing conviction that makes a bystander want to join in the applause. They are somehow apologetic about it. They point to other countries that have not gone in for prohibition in a big way—England and Germany, for example—and politely inquire why those peoples are not prosperous if ale and beer and wine and brandy as legal merchandise mean prosperity? They don't mean prosperity. To say so is just as foolish as was the ballyhoo of the dries in happier times that prohibition was the source of our abundance.

Yet in the golden days of Calvin our dry friends used to assert vehemently and oft that prohibition and plenty were one and the same, or, anyhow, Siamese twins, and he who dared to doubt it was pretty much of a scorpion. Now, as intellectual sincerest (if there were such a word), would it not become the dry kings and captains who have deployed prohibition and prosperity as cause and effect to acknowledge that they were, as the saying is, "all wet"; and if they were mistaken in that one detail, is it not possible they may be confused or in error about other items?

Surely, the present is a time for all good men to come to the aid of their country. It is no time to cling to old prejudices, indulge cracked illusions, flirt with wrinkled fancies or dodge the hard road of reality by detouring with dreams. Now is a time to grapple with facts, dig into and find the truth, if we can, and then go ahead.

That is precisely what our dry friends are not doing. If they could get away from their stubborn pride of opinion and bravely examine the record, they would have to admit that, socially, prohibition has done the shot; morally, it's way out in the rough and, economically, it is buried deep in a trap.

FAILURE.

With Gandhi holding out for complete independence, and the English unable or unwilling to go that far, the second round table conference has ended in failure. Many soft words were spoken by Premier MacDonald and others to ameliorate the harshness of the fact, but the unmovable Gandhi insisted that he would go back to India and revive the civil disobedience campaign. It is unfortunate for both sides to this historic meeting that it should have taken place at a time when Great Britain is so sorely pressed by internal problems. If that were not true, Britain might have conceded in a grand gesture what she may have to concede eventually after strife and bloodshed. But the present Government, unsure of its tenure, concentrating upon immense problems of revenue and unemployment, was not in position to give its heart and soul to the conference. MacDonald seized upon the inability of the Indian factions to agree among themselves to give the Government an "out." It was as good an excuse as any for the conference's failure, but it was only an excuse. The Indian problem remains, grave and ominous, upon the imperial horizon.

A POLITICAL APPOINTMENT?

Gov. Caulfield has just filled another vacancy on the State Highway Commission. In this instance, as in a previous appointment, his selection will be received with reservation by public opinion. Something less than a year ago, there was a vacancy on the commission, and the Governor chose William F. Phares of Maryville, a former chairman of the Republican State Committee, to fill it. Another vacancy occurred yesterday, through the expiration of the term of C. D. Matthews of Sikeston. The Governor went to the ranks of the Republican State Committee and selected Charles Ferguson of Willow Springs, Howell County.

The public knows little of Mr. Ferguson. He runs a general store in Willow Springs. He is an ex-Judge of the County Court. He has served as chairman of the Republican County Committee. He is a Fourteenth District member of the State committee of the Governor's party, and he was active in lining up Republican voters for the Governor in the 1928 primary. Report attributes Mr. Ferguson's appointment to local jealousies between Joplin and Springfield. Each city had a candidate for the appointment, each presenting a man of tried business experience and of tested public service. Mercer Arnold, a lawyer, was the Joplin candidate, and Louis Reps, a merchant and enterprising civic worker, was the Springfield candidate. Neither city was willing to permit the appointment to go to the other. The Governor took the easiest way out. He went to the little town of Willow Springs, in the Ozark hills, for his man.

The public at large is not interested in individuals, but it is interested in preserving the non-political integrity of the Highway Department. It is interested in a continuation of general public confidence in the Highway Commission.

By their actions as members of the commission, Mr. Phares and Mr. Ferguson can justify the Governor's judgment in selecting them. They can do this by keeping their official acts free of all political considerations.

EXAMPLE OF BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT IN KENTUCKY.

Personalities Rule British Politics

English people, not interested primarily in abstractions, always demand an individual to symbolize the issue; thus, in recent election, public did not grasp gold standard or other items at stake, but centered interest around MacDonald; three personalities likely to dominate future fights: the King, the Premier and Mr. Baldwin.

By John Foot, Member of the Oxford Debating Team Now Touring This Country.

POLITICS in England always has been a struggle of personalities. The British mind is not much interested in abstract conceptions. The average Englishman demands an individual who will personify his political convictions. That is why such doctrines as the equality of man, which ran like a flame through the social fabric of Europe, left us undisturbed. And that is why our political stage has always been dominated by individuals. We can trace our political history in a list of names. All our great movements are forever linked with personalities—Wilberforce and the abolition of slavery, Cobden and free trade, Gladstone and home rule for Ireland. They are indissolubly connected. And today the same is true.

After the war, it was Lloyd George who bestrode the stage. The 1918 election was fought around him. Probably no Prime Minister in our history has wielded such power as he wielded then. The success of personal candidates depended on his attitude. His smile meant election; his frown meant defeat. Now the pendulum has swung away from him, and the idol of 10 years ago finds himself with only three supporters in the House of Commons. It is not that he has been humbled into the wings. He remains a leading figure on the stage. But his role has changed. He is no longer the hero. His mantle has passed to another—Ramsay MacDonald.

The careers of these two bear a remarkable similarity. They were both the children of humble homes. Ramsay MacDonald was born in a Scottish fishing village. David Lloyd George was the son of a Welsh cobbler. Both of them fought their way against every kind of difficulty. Both of them preached a radicalism which shocked the elderly politicians. Both of them have known the bitterness of national hatred—the split in the Labor party, which caused the collapse of the Labor Government, was itself a clash of personalities. The Labor party in England has always claimed a far greater measure of control over its members of Parliament than other parties. Most of the members are willing to accept this domination because they believe that they can best assist their cause by so doing. But there are others who have never bothered to hide the fact that they believe this supernal integrity of the Highway Department. It is interested in a continuation of general public confidence in the Highway Commission.

The importance of personalities in English politics has never been more clearly demonstrated than in recent months. The split in the Labor party, which caused the collapse of the Labor Government, was itself a clash of personalities. The Labor party in England has always claimed a far greater measure of control over its members of Parliament than other parties. Most of the members are willing to accept this domination because they believe that they can best assist their cause by so doing. But there are others who have never bothered to hide the fact that they believe this supernal integrity of the Highway Department. It is interested in a continuation of general public confidence in the Highway Commission.

As it was, by so doing, they suddenly found themselves—perhaps a little to their own surprise—the heroes of the hour. They were acclaimed as martyrs for their country. Nothing was too good for them. Hardened journalists, for the first, and probably the last time in their lives, found themselves at a loss for words to express their emotions. The discredited politicians of a week or two earlier found themselves pushed into the role of national statesmen.

This was a role for which Mr. MacDonald had always considered himself eminently suited. He took his chance. He struck his first blow in the House of Commons on the steps of Buckingham Palace. He issued manifestoes to the nation. He issued manifestoes to his constituents. Manifestoes poured from his pen. Whenever he so much as peered from a window, he was greeted by a forest of cameras. His habits became a matter of national interest. His health became a subject of national concern. Distinguished medical authorities wrote long articles on the Premier's diet. The public eagerly scanned his morning newspapers to see that the Prime Minister had not omitted his daily walk. It was little wonder that, in this storm of adulation, the political issues became a little blurred.

Then came the election. The public was rather doubtful what it was really all about. The National Government asked for a "free hand" to apply any policy it might think necessary. Vain but heroic attempts were made to explain the meaning of the gold standard to a public without any knowledge of the elements of economics. And, in any event, the public was not interested. It was interested in personalities, and especially in Mr. MacDonald. It voted on personalities. It voted for Mr. MacDonald.

What will happen now? That, too, largely depends on personalities—and upon three in particular. They are—the King, Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Baldwin. The vast majority of the supporters of the National Government are Conservatives. They believe that tariffs will solve our economic difficulties. Mr. MacDonald and his Liberal colleagues are free-traders. It will be interesting to see how long Mr. MacDonald will be able to resist the demands of the Conservatives for the application of their policy. He has three weapons at his hand. (The British tariff, schedules an emergency measure, to run for six months only. Regular tariff legislation will come before Parliament some time before expiration of the present measures in April—Editor's Note.)

Chain Letter Sorcery

From the Church at Work.

WE HAVE just received another edition of our old friend, the "good luck" chain letter, which has been merely making its rounds for more than a quarter of a century.

It is a prize combination of superstition and absurdity. You are asked to make a copy and send it to each of nine friends. If you do this, you are promised a piece of great good fortune. If you fail, you are threatened with nameless disaster. The origin of the original letter was attributed to a mythical "Bishop Lawrence." The present one is said to have been started in Flanders by an American artillery General. To spur you on, you are told that the faithful Mr. V. of Victoria (country not stated), on the ninth day after compliance, won $200,000 in a lottery prize! And as a horrible warning, you are informed that a Mr. W. who defied fate by refusing to fall in line, had his house "destroyed" on the eighth day. Such details are the embroidery that Dame Rumor has worked in the edges of this fantastic bit of second century sorcery.

By consigning this letter to the waste basket, we have joined the doomed Mr. W. beneath an unlucky star. Something will happen to us some time. At the least, death and the taxes will overtake us. And when they do, those who have complied will be in a position to laugh us to scorn. Meantime, the fearful and the ignorant go on from year to year copying and mailing the letter, the only beneficiary being the Government, which all unwittingly profits from the sale of postage stamps.

man's personality and his control of his own followers.

The second of Mr. MacDonald's weapons is his right to demand a dissolution of Parliament. Another personality is thus brought on to the stage—the personality of the King. It is a popular fallacy that the crown is a mere cypher—what Bernard Shaw calls a "rubber stamp" in the hands of the Prime Minister. Recent events should have destroyed such an illusion. For it was the King who was largely responsible for the formation of the National Government. When Mr. MacDonald resigned in August, the natural course for the King to have pursued would have been to send for Mr. Baldwin and ask him to attempt to form a government. This he did not do. He preferred to ask Mr. MacDonald to continue—in spite of the fact that Mr. MacDonald was then without a party in the House of Commons. It is not too much to say that, by that action, the King altered the whole course of our political development. And if Mr. MacDonald, finding his position intolerable, should some time ask for a dissolution, it will be for the King to decide whether he will accede to that request.

The third weapon at Mr. MacDonald's disposal is his own position. At present, his influence is such that it is doubtful if even the Conservative party, with its huge numerical majority, would dare throw him aside, even if he resisted their demands. But popular favor is notoriously fickle. Mr. MacDonald probably recalls how Mr. Lloyd George was treated by the Conservative party. It must be difficult for him to contemplate that episode of history with a historian's detachment. A distinguished statesman once said that "a majority is an unanswerable argument." It is just possible that the events of the next few months will prove him to have been wrong and will show that there is an answer even to a majority—and that is a personality.

STALIN'S WIFE S TO BE RAYON

Completing Three-Year Course at In Academy in Mos

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Dec. 2.—The wife of the dictator, who is to become an expert in the field of technical study at the Industrial Academy here, is completing a three-year course in a class of students.

She is known simply as Allilueva, her maiden name. Authorities say she is an intelligent pupil and is anxious to allow her position in any way to her children, but she does her domestic responsibilities with her work. Several hours a day are spent in her home in the academy on jam cars and she spends several days a week, at several hours a day, at her "home work" as most of her work now is chemical laboratory.

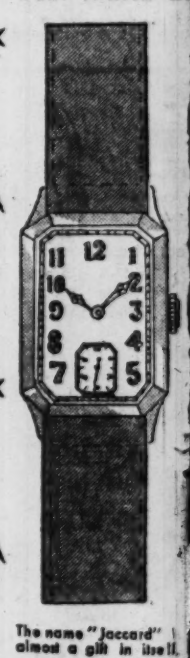

When she completes this year she probably will give a combined academic and technical post in a large Soviet rayon and will have the same as other graduates of the academy.

Mrs. Stalin, 23 years old, is the second wife of the leader, who is 51. She is a native of Georgia and wears her long black hair straight back and done up behind. She wears plain and does smocks for her laboratory.

She and Stalin were married when she was 19, already one child, a first wife. The boy is 11 and lives with his father's mother.

Their romance began when she was a daughter of Sergei Alliluev, a native of Georgia, who was a friend of Stalin's father, at whose home she was given shelter when she was 19.

STALIN'S WIFE STUDIES TO BE RAYON EXPERT

Completing Three-Year Technical Course at Industrial Academy in Moscow.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, Dec. 2.—Mme. Stalin, wife of the dictator, is studying to become an expert in the production of artificial silk. She is rounding out a three-year course of technical study at the All-Union Industrial Academy here—the only woman in a class of six.

She is known simply as Nadya Alliluyeva, her maiden name. School authorities say she is an earnest and diligent pupil and that she refuses to allow her position to influence in any way to her advantage. Mme. Stalin is the mother of two children, but she does not allow her domestic responsibilities to interfere with her work. She spends 40 minutes a day riding to and from her home in the Kremlin to the academy on jammed street cars and she spends seven hours, five days a week, at the school. Several hours a day are spent doing "home work" after school. Most of her work now is in the chemical laboratory.

When she completes the course this year she probably will be given a combined administrative and technical post in one of the large Soviet rayon industries, the same as other graduates of the academy.

Mme. Stalin, 29 years old, is the second wife of the Communist leader, who is 51. She is of medium height, inclined to plumpness, and wears her long brown hair combed straight back from her forehead and done up in a knot behind. She wears plain clothes and dons smocks for her work in the laboratory.

She and Stalin were married in 1919 when she was 17. He had already one child, a boy, by his first wife. The boy is now 22 and lives with his father and step-mother.

Their romance began in their native Caucasus where she was the daughter of Sergei Alliluyev, a locksmith at whose home Stalin was given shelter when as a Bolshevik

THOMAS H. FRANCIS ESTATE LEFT IN TRUST FOR WIDOW

Niece to Get It at Death of Wife and Her Sisters.

The will of Thomas H. Francis, senior member of Francis Bro. & Co., was filed yesterday at Clayton. It leaves his entire estate in trust for the widow, Mrs. Belle G. Francis, who is to receive the income during her lifetime. If the income does not amount to $4800 a year, the trustee, the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., is directed to supply the difference from the principal.

The will, as drawn in 1927, provided that the minimum income payable to the widow should be $6000 a year, but a codicil made April 15 last reduced this to $4800. It is provided that after the death of Mrs. Francis, a trust fund of $25,000 shall be taken from the estate for each of her two sisters, Miss Bettie L. Page and Miss Mimi C. Page, or for either of them who is then living. The rest of the estate is to be divided among Mr. Francis' three nieces, Mrs. Eliza Ware of St. Louis, Mrs. Sidney Jackson of Boston and Mrs. Rebecca Day of Ferguson. They or their heirs are to receive the funds left in trust for the Misses Page, after the deaths of the latter.

Mr. Francis, who was 76 years old, and who was married to Miss Belle Page five years ago, died in St. Luke's Hospital Sunday. He was the brother of the late David R. Francis, former Mayor, Governor, Cabinet member and latest Ambassador to Russia. Mr. and Mrs. Francis lived in Ferguson, where she was for many years a school teacher.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

DEBUTANTE

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM JOSEPH PHELAN, 13 Dromeda road, have issued invitations for a ball to be given Monday, Dec. 23, at Glen Echo Country Club for their debutante niece, Miss Jane Frances Smith, daughter of Mrs. Claude H. Smith, 13 Princeton avenue, University City. Members of the Princeton Triangle Club will be guests at the party.

The invitations are in the Princeton colors, orange and black, with a black triangle decorating the card. The invitation reads as follows: "A triangle is either a plane, spherical or curvilinear triangle, according as its sides are straight lines or arcs of great circles of a sphere, or any curved lines whatever. Of course, triangles in mathematics or life itself present problems, but this one is no problem, as it deals with simple straight lines. You are cordially invited to take a straight line to Glen Echo Country Club Monday evening, Dec. 23, arriving there at 11:30 for a party given in honor of Miss Jane Frances Smith."

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Singleton, 27 Washington terrace, will have as their guest their daughter, Mrs. Burford L. Porter of Lake Forest, Ill., who will arrive next Wednesday for a week's stay. Mr. Porter will join her for the week-end and they will be entertained informally. Mrs. Porter was, until her marriage a few months ago, Miss Susie Singleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Singleton, with their daughters, Miss Elizabeth and Miss June Singleton, were in Lake Forest for the Thanksgiving holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Porter.

Miss June Singleton, a student at Mary Institute, will be the guest of honor at a Christmas holiday dance to be given by her parents the night of Dec. 21 at their home. The guests will be members of the young school set.

Five parties, two of them for the debutante set, have been arranged. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Pierce, 21 Vandewater place, and their son, Julius Pierce, will give a mixed tea for the debutantes, Dec. 27 at their home.

Mrs. Thomas M. Meaton, 501 Clara avenue, will give a small luncheon at the St. Louis Woman's Club Dec. 12 for her debutante daughter, Miss Betty Meaton. Informal invitations have been issued. Mr. and Mrs. George Castleman Mackay, 369 Lindell boulevard, will entertain the college set at a dinner dance Wednesday evening, Dec. 23 at their home for their daughters, Miss Suzanne and Miss Lucie Mackay.

The young school set will be guests at a tea dance to be given by Dr. and Mrs. Borden S. Veeder of the Clayton and Kent roads for Mrs. Veeder's daughter, Miss Vera Angert, Dec. 29, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Miss Angert attends the John Burroughs School.

Dr. and Mrs. Roy Calvin Dobson, 84 Arundel place, have sent invitations for a dance Wednesday evening, Dec. 30, for their daughter, Miss Dorothy Dobson, a member of the junior class at Mary Institute. The guests, including the school set, have been invited for 8:30 o'clock.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Morgens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Morgens, 6929 Washington boulevard, and Chester Dwight Sommerich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher D. Sommerich, 4210 Athlon avenue, will take place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. The arrangements are to be informal. The Rev. Dr. Wofford C. Timmons of the First Congregational Church will officiate, and the bride party will include only Mrs. Clara Speer, Port Huron, Mich., formerly Miss Esther Skinner of Webster

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Anthony, Warren, Ark., formerly of St. Louis, celebrated their silver wedding Nov. 21. Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Fullerton, also former St. Louisans, gave a mixed tea at their home from 5 to 6 o'clock, followed by a dinner dance at the Southernland Hotel. The table was set for 30 guests, including several St. Louis friends who went South for the event, and was decorated with white chrysanthemums and silver candles against a background of smilax and ferns. Later the guests went to the Anthony home for bridge.

The Fourth Friday Dancing Club will have its December party Friday night, Dec. 18, in the Tower Room of the Congress Hotel. Mrs. George Barnard Gannett, 6425 Cecil avenue, is president of the organization. Its members are the younger married set.

Miss Irene Williams, daughter of Mrs. John T. Williams, 5635 Waterman avenue, and her aunt, Mrs. Thomas W. Carter of the Forest Park Hotel, departed yesterday for New York to sail tomorrow on the Saturnia for an Adriatic cruise. They will go to Trieste, Italy, and will spend Christmas in Paris, returning home in three or four months.

AERONAUTICAL MEN TO DRAFT AIR RULES FOR ILLINOIS

Executives From Several States Meet Government Representatives in East St. Louis.

A group of aeronautical executives arrived at East St. Louis this morning for the opening of a State aviation officials' conference at Hotel Broadview this afternoon. Representatives of the Government and various states are scheduled to attend and assist in drawing aeronautical regulations for Illinois, which will conform in general to those in effect elsewhere. Among the arrivals this morning were L. T. Bell, chairman of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce; A. H. Stackpole, chairman of the Aeronautical Association of Pennsylvania; Frank McKee, State Director of Aviation for Ohio, and Temple Bowen, an airline operator.

TRUE to their tradition of balance and proportion and the Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival Company at the American Theater last night gave a splendid performance of the infrequently played "King Lear." A considerable audience broke in again and again with spontaneous applause.

Randle Ayrton made an unforgettable "Lear." Every detail of make-up, costume, manner contributed to the tragic, kingly portrait that Shakespeare wrote so consummately well. While Ayrton was admirable in each phase of the role, as the arrogant, doddering King, the raging madman, and the broken old man, it was at the last, when he wakes to recognize Cordelia, that his performance reached the highest point of tragedy.

So long have the Stratford players been together and so well do they understand their business that each player seemed in turn to add something to this single portrait of Lear, while at the same time creating his or her own role. With one very minor exception, each part was so well taken that it is scarcely possible to single out any one performance. But a word should be said for Gyles Isham in the difficult role of "Edmund." By the force and vigor of his somewhat stylized performance he made Edmund's dark villainy almost plausible to a modern audience.

The play was uncut, even the scene in which Gloucester's eyes are plucked out being done, a departure from recent precedent. Horror succeeds horror but the final effect, it is scarcely necessary to add, was not that of one of our contemporary horror plays. For here is the true katharsis of the ancient Greeks, tragedy that is on a plane above the ordinary trials of human beings.

At a matinee this afternoon the Stratford-Upon-Avon Company do "A Winter's Tale" and tonight "King Henry the Fourth," part one, which has not been done in St. Louis for 50 years or more.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Anthony, Warren, Ark., formerly of St. Louis, celebrated their silver wedding Nov. 21. Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Lipton's Own Story of Life

From Poverty to Millions

Autobiography of Late Tea Millionaire, Published in London, Rich in Anecdotes of the Great.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 2.—The autobiography of the late Sir Thomas Lipton, tea millionaire, chain store magnate and international sportsman, recently published here, gives a wealth of intimate anecdotes about the man who, nearing 80 and almost on his death bed, was still planning another quest for "that blooming old mug" for America's cup.

"Leaves from the Lipton Logs," traces his life from the days he cleaned shop windows and ran errands for half a crown a week in Glasgow to the years when he entertained Kings and Courtiers. The story of his toils and triumphs was completed a few months before his death.

At a royal review in Edinburgh, Sir Thomas, in the uniform of an honorary Colonel, was riding past the King's stand when he horse bucked and, "like an Arizona rodeo performer," he was flung 15 feet in the air, and woke up in a nursing home.

King Edward insisted on Sir Thomas' completing his convalescence at Balmoral Castle, and at dinner the King tapped him on the shoulder. "And now, Lipton, I am going to bestow upon you a new honor," he said. "I promote you to the horse marines."

METROPOLITAN CHURCH FEDERATION MEETS TUESDAY

Twenty-second Annual Session of Protestant Church Organization; 600 Delegates Expected.

The twenty-second annual meeting of the Metropolitan Church Federation of St. Louis, an organization of Protestant churches of the city, will be held at the Coronado Hotel next Tuesday evening. The Rev. Dr. Frederick B. Fisher of Ann Arbor, Mich., will deliver the principal address. An informal reception at 6 o'clock will open the meeting. About 600 delegates and guests are expected to attend. Officers and Executive Committee members will be selected.

The federation embraces 331 church units and a combined membership of more than 225,000. Its activities include religious surveys, shop and street meetings, Lenten services, evangelistic conferences, institutional services and Bible and training schools.

LEADERS EXPECT PROHIBITION VOTE IN NEXT CONGRESS

yesterday "we will have to face the prohibition issue at the coming session."

The New Yorker also said that where any substantial House group wanted a vote of any question before the people, including that on prohibition, he would make efforts as the leader of the party to help them to obtain it.

Wets Favor Vote.

Representative Linthicum of Maryland, the Democratic chairman of the wet bloc, and Representative LaGuardia, Independent Republican of New York, also expect the House to vote on the question.

With the wet bloc numbering about 170 members and the Republicans generally favoring a rule which will permit a vote on prohibition, it appears almost certain some action will be taken. Meanwhile, the National Prohibition Board of Strategy reported today that more than 25,000 dimes were scooped out of one day's mail as the first cash return from the dry group's campaign for "dry dimes to beat wet dollars."

Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the board, watched 10 women push the dimes into a mound on a table, and then into an electric counter in a local bank. He said he thought the campaign, begun some weeks ago for funds to carry their cause through this session of Congress and the presidential campaign of 1932 would bring in "well over $1,000,000."

DOUBLE VALUE

MOBILGAS WITH

CLIMATIC-CONTROL

plus
ETHYL FLUID

TO MAKE gasoline that will bring out super-performance by your car every minute—wherever and whenever you drive—we are adding Ethyl fluid to Mobilgas that already has Climatic-Control. The double-value result is Mobilgas Ethyl.

Sun or rain—hot or cold—high or low—Mobilgas Ethyl is pre-adjusted to give you all-weather uniformity. It has Climatic-Control.

Edging through traffic or dashing away at the flash of a light—idling down grade or charging up steep hills—Mobilgas Ethyl gives you highest power and perfect smoothness. It contains Ethyl fluid. It can't knock.

Double value. Everything you want in a motor fuel—yet the price is no higher than for other Ethyl gasoline. At all Lubrite Stations.

MOBILGAS makes gasoline offering Climatic-Control. The all-weather gasoline.

ETHYL FLUID makes gasoline burn at exactly the right speed to give full power. Prevents knock.

MOBILGAS ETHYL gives you these two most needed qualities in one gasoline. The only Ethyl gasoline offering Climatic-Control.

row Wilson in 1911 and was re-elected in 1913. The Republicans recaptured the district in 1915 and had held it since.

Democrats Hope to Win New Hampshire Seat

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Elated by victory in New Jersey yesterday, the Democrats are becoming sanguine over the possibility of taking the last remaining vacant House seat, that in the First New Hampshire District.

The party holds 219 seats, two more than a bare majority, as a result of the election of Percy Stewart yesterday.

The leaders among them Speaker-Candidate Garner of Texas, called the result an omen for 1932's presidential election.

The New Hampshire district cannot be won in time for representation at the organization of the House. The seat has been occupied by a Democrat once before in recent years. Among voters of the district are the mill employees of Manchester, with whose ballot, if a strong candidate offers, the Democrats believe they will win.

Five out of seven recent elections to fill House vacancies have favored the Democrats. Three of the five victories took seats that had been occupied by Republicans.

The House membership now stands Democrats 219, Republicans 214, Farmer-Labor 1; vacant 1.

SAYS MILLION MEN IN BREWING WOULD MAKE U. S. DRUNK

paid by the arrested and convicted bootleggers amounted to 4½ cents per capita, a small insurance against suicide on the highways by drunken drivers. It looks as if prohibition might even help solve the financial problem if the Government would appropriate enough money to actually enforce prohibition, which it has never done.

"All of this talk and twaddle about enriching America by debauching its citizenship reaches the sublimity of its ridiculousness when we learn that Germany and Great Britain have the largest breweries in the world, and that they are now in vastly greater financial distress than we are—indeed, are asking us for relief loans, and are getting a war debt moratorium likely to last five years. Germany spends 27.74 per cent of her food and drink bill for alcoholic liquors—enough to feed 13,500,000 of Germany's hungry citizens. The unemployment conditions in all the European countries, so many more of whose sons were slain during the war, and whose labor population is correspondingly reduced, are tremendously worse than our own.

Nursing vs. Beer Bottle.

"But think of the poor farmer, who, if beer returned, would have a market for his grain," plaintively plead our wet friends, some of whose only use for a farm is to furnish golf links. At the peak of both brewing and distilling, the only grain that contributed more than 2 per cent of its total to liquor making, including brewing, was barley, 32 per cent; and it did not take the farmers long to find that other grains and hay would grow in barley soil. Soft drinks still take care of a great deal of this grain, and increased drinking of milk consumers more than the balance. Master of the National Grange Tabor says that to produce the 35 per cent increased milk consumed per capita, requires more grain than was used by all the brewers and all the distillers before prohibition. The nursing bottle is less harmful to society than the beer or wine bottle.

"Not content, however, with these baseless claims of impossibility, wet leaders and their subservient press are charging the so-called crime wave to prohibition. Between 1918 and 1929 the courts of Great Britain convicted for drunkenness 670,842 men and boys, and 137,223 women and girls—808,065 in all. Wine-drunken Paris arrested for drunkenness last year 50 persons per 10,000 of population, while very moderately dry prohibition New York arrested only 18 per 10,000.

"Arrests for drunkenness of automobile drivers have increased in Ontario, since partial prohibition there was repealed, 51 per cent, bootlegging 82 per cent and liquor sales 105 per cent. In England automobile deaths average one person for every 118 automobiles, whereas the number killed averages only one person for every 1131 machines owned in New York State. Everybody knows, but the wets, that sober men are less likely to commit crimes than are drunken ones. Even world peace awaits us just around the corner, after the coming of international sobriety."

Miss Norma C. Brown of Indianapolis, the other chief speaker at yesterday's meetings, spoke on "The Eighteenth Amendment. Why We Stand for It." She used the term "stand for" in the sense of "stand up for."

"In the midst of the decaying influence of a money-mad, machine-driven, uncreative civilization," Miss Brown said, "there are souls that tower above it, as untouched by its superficial elements as are the loftiest peaks of distant mountain ranges by the frenzy of Broadway."

"To all such it is given to see that the adoption of the prohibition policy in the United States is something more than a means of annihilating one source of mighty waste, that it is something more than saving ourselves alone from human wreckage. To such as these and to those to whom they can impart their spirit, it becomes a mighty test of our whole civilization, with more than passing meaning in the cultural history of the world."

Quick Relief for Common Coughs,
Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up severe coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief in a hurry.

From any drugist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of incipient bronchial coughs and other severe coughs due to colds. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

RADIOLOGY INSTITUTE UNVEILS

Portrait of MALLINCKRODT

Charles Nagel and Dr. Everts Graham Speak at Ceremony for Benefactor.

A portrait of the late Edward Mallinckrodt Sr., by Kanji Nakamura, noted Japanese artist of Cambridge, Mass., was unveiled yesterday at the Edward Mallinckrodt Institute of Radiology, a part of Washington University. Speakers included Charles Nagel, president of the Washington University Corporation, and Dr. Everts Graham of the School of Medicine.

The institute, representing an investment of $1,220,000, was constructed from funds given by Mr. Mallinckrodt, his son, Edward Jr., and an endowment of $750,000 from the General Education Board of the Rockefeller Foundation. It contains special equipment valued at $20,000, donated by John F. Queney and his son, Edgar F. Queney.

"Mr. Mallinckrodt gave this building with no desire to display his name," Nagel told the group at the ceremony. "The building, as he wished, is without display on the outside; the main expense has been the equipment on the inside, where the work of our faculty in medicine, which has no superior in this country, will be done."

"The faculty," said Dr. Graham, "realizes the tremendous responsibility placed on it by this gift—the finest institute of its kind in the world. Interest on this investment must be productive—a place not only of immediate service, but of scientific research. That interest will be international, for science knows no boundaries."

TWO STOLEN AUTOS AND JEWELRY ARE RECOVERED

Loot Found After the Arrest of Two Young Men Stopped on Suspicion.

Following the arrest of two young men Monday night police recovered two stolen automobiles and jewelry taken in a holdup earlier the same evening. The automobiles were stolen from Clinton Whittemore, 4114 Argyle place, and Robert B. Dana, 54 Kingsbury place.

The jewelry was taken from Thomas J. Bolland of the Forest Park Hotel, who was held up near Taylor and Maryland avenues by two men, one of them armed. A watch taken from Bolland was found in one of the automobiles when detectives stopped it and arrested the two men on suspicion, and a chain and charm were recovered from the branches of a tree near the scene of the robbery, where the robbers had thrown them.

The two, whom Bolland identified as the holdup men, are booked as Walter C. Stone Jr. and Lionel D. McGill, both of whom have been living recently at an address on North Euclid avenue.

MORE CLOTHING REQUESTED FOR DISTRIBUTION TO NEEDY

Supply Sent to Citizens' Relief Committee Last Fall Is Exhausted.

All of the winter clothing donated early in the fall to the Clothing Bureau of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment, at 2218 Locust street, has been distributed and there is now an urgent need for all kinds of men's and children's clothing. Mrs. Irvin Bettman, chairman of the bureau, said today.

"When we get in a bundle containing overcoats, shoes, suits, trousers, socks or underwear, they are almost immediately distributed."

Mrs. Bettman said. "By the middle of the morning any men's clothing received the day before is gone. We need children's shoes and stockings. Many little tots come in during these cold, damp days without stockings. Boys need blouses and we haven't any blouses to give them."

Dean Donham of Harvard Individualism in Business Must Live.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—That bureaucratic control might destroy individualism and set up a system in the United States, Dean Donham of Harvard Business Administration University.

FEARS CASTE SYSTEM THROUGH BUREAUCRACY

Dean Donham of Harvard Says Individualism in Business Must Live.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—A warning that bureaucratic control of industry might destroy individual opportunity and set up a caste system in the United States was given yesterday by Dean Wallace B. Donham of the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard University.

"The chance of the individual to rise," Dean Donham said, "is one of the most precious assets of America." Speaking before the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, he said any plan to stabilize business that overlooked the individual must fail.

"Any plan," he added, "which in its initial stage or in its probable development builds up a great Federal bureaucracy to control business or great quasi-judicial bodies making executive decisions for business, fails to meet the test of adaptability to changing conditions. All the experience of the world demonstrates that bureaucracies are the antithesis of change."

Suggests Four Tests.
He gave four tests which, he said, any attempt to stabilize business in the next 20 years must meet.

His first test, he asserted, was: "Does the remedy apply to changing conditions?"

The second, he said, was that individual opportunity must be preserved "notwithstanding the fact it carries with it individual risk."

The third test must be whether the stability of the plan would carry it through continued progress in a changing world.

As the final test, he said, the plan must "minimize the strains on a democratic society."

Contrasting America's position with Russia's he expressed the opinion that a large measure of control over public service monopolies was a necessity but that control over private initiative was "objectionable wherever it is not necessary for the attainment of a larger objective and if carried too far will bring about revolutionary changes in the direction of Sovietism."

Antitrust Laws Upheld.
Opposition to repeal or change of the antitrust laws was voiced by two professors who have been active in investigating them. They spoke at the Columbia University symposium which is studying the laws in a series of meetings.

Prof. Frank A. Fetter of Princeton University charged a "multi-billion dollar propaganda" effort to cripple the laws was now in progress.

The objections which were proposed to the law 40 years ago are being proposed by the same group which has never ceased "to feign the anti-monopoly policy," the speaker said, but never before has the effort been so strenuous.

Fetter's objection to repeal of the laws was seconded to some degree by Prof. Walton H. Hamilton of Yale who, admitting their failure either to protect the public from high prices or industry from over-competition, said they must stand as a declaration that business is affected with the public interest.

Fetter was an adviser in the Federal Trade Commission investigation of the Pittsburgh-plus price practices of the steel industry, while Hamilton has been active in planning for the coal industry.

Boy Shot by Reformer
Peritonitis Develops and He Has Only Slight Chance to Live.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Herman Knol, the 17-year-old boy who was shot Sunday night by Daniel Gilday, liquor and vice crusader, has developed peritonitis and has only a slight chance to live, his physician announced today.

Assistant State's Attorney Malachy Coghlan, making a successful plea yesterday against Gilday's release on a writ of habeas corpus, said "pending the outcome of Knol's wound, the State is not able to decide what charges shall be placed against Gilday."

"We are holding this man," he told the Court, "because while in an intoxicated condition and without cause or provocation he shot and severely wounded a boy who went to help him."

Gilday, 65-year-old officer in several reform organizations, had admitted shooting the boy, but said he fired in self-defense as the two youths tried to hold him up. He denied being intoxicated.

ACCOUNTING SUIT AGAINST HAMILTON-BROWN DISMISSED

Boston Leather Concern Had Alleged Breach of Contract Over Tennessee Plant.

The accounting suit of Lade-Jones Co., a leather concern of Boston, against the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. of St. Louis was dismissed on stipulation before Circuit Judge Hartmann yesterday. The suit grew out of an alleged breach of agreement on the part of the local company to keep a tannery at Kingsport, Tenn., known as the Kingtan Extract Co., furnished with wet milled hides. As a result, it was alleged, the plant was shut down, causing heavy loss to the Lade-Jones Co., which owned 49 per cent of the tannery's stock. This loss was estimated at $800,000, but the Court was asked to order an accounting, that the exact amount might be determined.

In an answer filed by Hamilton-Brown Co., which had acquired a 51 per cent ownership of the Kingtan plant, it was alleged that it entered into the deal as a result of misrepresentations, assurance being given that the yearly profit would total about $800,000. However, the company claimed to have suffered a total loss of $2,000,000 in the transaction, for which it asked judgment from Lade-Jones on a counter claim.

The stipulation sets forth the case was dismissed at costs of defendant. Luke E. Hart, representing Hamilton-Brown, said a small sum was paid by his client in settlement of the case, but he declined to disclose the amount.

MISSOURI TO THROW ONE-TON PINCH AGAINST BILLIKEN LINE

REGULARS WEIGH AN EVEN 2000 POUNDS; ST. L. TRIFLE LIGHTER

SUBSTITUTE LINEMAN GETS 'MOST VALUABLE' NORTHWESTERN AWARD

By the Associated Press.
EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 2.—AUL "TINY" ENGBRETTSEN of Chardon, Ind., yesterday was selected as the most valuable member of the Northwestern football squad this season.

Engbretsen, substitute guard and tackle, is a senior. His outstanding single performance was place-kicking for the extra point which gave the Wildcats their 7 to 6 victory over Indiana.

By James M. Gould.
When Missouri U. meets St. Louis U. in football conflict here Saturday the Tigers will hurl a one-ton projectile against the Billiken line. For probable lineups sent from Columbia show that the seven linemen weigh 1320 pounds and the four backfield men 680 pounds. It doesn't take much of a mathematician to see that the total is 2000 pounds—a short ton, in fact. How "short," only the game will tell.

This Missouri squad is a mixture of youth and experience with two men, Captain Bittner, fullback, and Mack Gladden, end, playing their last years of varsity football. Kerby and Morgan, tackles; Teckel and Hartman, guards, and Carl Johanningsmeier, halfback, are playing their second varsity year, while the sophomores who will start are Charley Schiele, end; Denny, center; Stuber, quarterback, and Hatfield, halfback.

Teckel and Johanningsmeier are St. Louis boys and Schiele went to Missouri from East St. Louis High School, where he made a name for himself on the gridiron. Schiele, even though a sophomore, is regarded as one of the finest players on the squad and his work has been recognized in his selection as a member of the Big Six all-star team for 1931.

The Missouri line as above outlined will average 183 pounds, the backfield 170 and the team as a whole 153.

"Shock Troops" Are Lighter.
If Head Coach Walsh of St. Louis starts his shock troops as he now intends to do, Missouri will have a weight advantage. The St. Louis starting line, with Tiger Walsh's playing right guard in place of the injured Johnny Black, will average 173 pounds, the backfield will be exactly equal to Missouri's with 170 and the St. Louis team will average 174. This gives the Tigers a built-in 10 pounds per man on the line, though the whole team will average but six pounds more than the Billikens.

However, Walsh's "shock troops" will be in there just to prepare the way for the regulars, and this St. Louis team will be heavier, the line averaging 185, the backfield 170 and the team as a whole 180, two pounds lighter than the starting Missouri lineup.

All of which indicates that the teams are well matched as to weight, with the Tigers appearing to have a bit the better of it in experience, especially when the St. Louis "shockers" are operating. The signal callers of the teams that will begin action are the two lightest men on the field, Stuber of Missouri weighing only 155 and Thompson, the St. Louis quarter, weighing only 142. Bassett, the first-string Billiken quarter, weighs 185.

The Missouri players want to win. There's no doubt of that. For them, a victory would be the redemption of a terrible season. Even more, perhaps, do the St. Louis battlers yearn for a triumph to add to the seven victories they already have turned in this season.

It may be Missouri's day. Football men believe that every team, with material, has one really good game a year in it and this may be Missouri's. If it is and the squad from Columbia plays up to the limit of its possibilities, the fight will be worth coming miles to see.

As a matter of cold, hard fact, it figures to be close and hard-fought all the way.

The Billiken players are taking things rather easy these days and there will be no contact-scrimmage before the game, as Coach Walsh wants to take no chances of injuries to his stars. It is likely that Missouri coaches will follow the same line of training. Both teams are football conscious and, if by now they haven't learned what football is all about, deserve to be put in the hopeless class.

Cochet to Play In U. S. Title Event Again

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Dec. 2.—Henri Cochet, France's ranking tennis player, is planning another trip to the United States to play in the tennis championships in California next summer.

Cochet told the Associated Press he also will visit Mexico on his trip to the North American Continent, fulfilling an announced plan for a visit to the Central American republic, which he was unable to make this year.

LAYTON LOSES SECOND ROUND BILLIARD MATCH

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—Al Miller of Racine, Wis., defeated John Layton, Sedalia, Mo., in the first of today's matches for the world's pocket billiard championship. Miller won 125 to 110 in 29 innings.

It was the longest and most gruelling match so far in the championship tournament, requiring two hours and 25 minutes to play. Miller's high run was 29 and Layton's best was 24. Each took the lead in turn. In the twenty-fourth inning, with Layton leading 111 to 90, he missed a side cushion shot, leaving five balls well scattered on the table. Miller then made his high run of 29.

The point score:
Miller—0, 4, 7, 6, 1, 4, 0, 5, 3, 2, 1, 0, 0, 13, 2, 0, 14, 0, 4, 12, 9, 10, 12, 0, 0, 0, 9, 4, 0, 2, 0, 24, 14, 3, 0, 0, 11, 0, 0, 0—115; scratches, 5; total 116.

Clicking the balls into pockets with precision after Ernie Rindolph, the defending champion, and Onofre Lauri, Brooklyn violinist, had won the first day, Ralph Greenleaf, New York, Bennie Allen, City; Frank Taberski, Schenectady, N. Y., and Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo., scored victories yesterday.

Greenleaf defeated Robert Lindblom of Seattle, West Coast champion, 125 to 15, in seven innings, the shortest game of the tourney. He amassed a high run of 83. Allen had no difficulty with Andrew Ponzi, winning 125 to 104 in 12 innings, while Layton earned a close victory over Marcell Camp, Detroit, 125 to 117, and Taberski downed Al Miller, Racine, Wis., beginner, 125 to 58 in 17 innings, the longest contest of the meeting.

The first round encounters were mainly meetings of old masters against youngsters who have invaded circles of the elite. The youngsters often flashed streaks of brilliancy, only to slump as the winners steadily drove on.

At a meeting of coaches and officials of the Southwestern Illinois High School Conference at Wood River High School last night, plans for the coming basketball season were discussed and an All-Conference football team selected. East St. Louis High, which won the conference football title with a clean slate, placed but three men on the mythical eleven. Belleville placed two men, as did Alton, Collinsville, Granite City, Madison and Wood River placed one each.

The backfield selections of the coaches were unanimous, while the guard and tackle positions were the hardest to decide, as there were at least six men who had shown remarkable form. Cole and Kodras, however, had the edge on the others as they played on winning teams. The failure of Jimmie Kraskey, East Side mainstay at the guard position, to place on one of the eleven proved quite an upset. Bill Egan, East Side tackle, was the outstanding tackle in the conference, while Riddle of Madison, although playing on a losing team, won the other tackle berth.

Forrest Holten of East St. Louis, although not outstanding, played a game at end and gained a position, as did Saltzman of Wood River, rated as the best pass receiver in the conference. There were quite a few other fine ends, including Bennett of Collinsville, Walker of Belleville, Browning of East St. Louis and Vanzo of Edwardsville.

The omission of Herb Fash of East St. Louis from the first eleven was the biggest surprise as Fash was rated as a possible all-State selection at the center position.

Chambers Named Captain.
The East St. Louis High School football eleven, champions of the Southwestern Illinois Conference, was feted last night by the East Side Lions' Club at a dinner held at the Knights of Columbus Building in East St. Louis.

The main talk was made by Coach "Chile" Walsh of St. Louis University. The coaches and the principal of the East Side institution also gave short addresses.

Mark Chambers was elected captain of the 1932 eleven.

Trio of Tulane Stars Named on All-Star Eleven

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 2.—Tulane University, champion of the Southern conference football championship, placed three of its brightest stars on the 1931 all-Southern team selected today for the Associated Press by coaches and sport writers.

The Green Wave, conference titlist this year and in 1929 and co-champion with Alabama a year ago, is represented on the sixth annual Associated Press team by Jerry Dalrymple, end; Don Zimmers, halfback, and John Scalfie, guard.

Tennessee, runner-up to Tulane, also landed three men on the honor squad, while Georgia and Vanderbilt had two each and Alabama one.

The 1931 all-Southern football team as selected for the Associated Press by sport writers and coaches follows:

FOGERTY IS NAMED AS HILLCREST CLUB PRO
Frank Fogerty, brother of Jim Fogerty, professional of Osgood Country Club, has just been appointed professional at Hillcrest Country Club, G. F. Wood Smith announced today.

TIGERS SURE TO BATTLE AGAINST THE BILLIKENS

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 2.—If the Billikens of St. Louis University are expecting to spend a nice, sociable afternoon next Saturday in running over, around and through the Missouri Tigers in their post-season charity battle with the Bengals, they are a badly mistaken lot.

The Billiken boys emerge with the long end of the score, but it will not be without a fight—a full 60 minutes of battling.

That is the conclusion which might be reached by anyone willing to go to the opinion of any of the 21 Missourians who will comprise the Tiger football army which will invade St. Louis next Saturday for a set-to with St. Louis U. out of which will emerge the mythical state champion eleven of Missouri.

Beaten by seven of their nine opponents thus far this year, the Tigers would like nothing better than to satiate an appetite for victory starved all season in their 1931 finale Saturday.

There is another reason why the Missourians would relish upsetting the dope on the Billikens Saturday. Although Billiken and Tiger elevens have met but nine times in the past, for some reason or another the Missourians have developed a "beat St. Louis U." complex.

Since the Billiken charity game was carded in midseason, beating St. Louis U. has been one of the Tiger goals for the Bengals. The Tigers, it seems, have developed a very special feeling totally unlike brotherly love for the Billikens.

So it is a grimly determined Missouri football squad which is this week going about its business to invade Coach Chilo Walsh's stronghold Saturday. There is a decidedly businesslike air about the way the Missourians are with serious endeavor striving for the Billiken battle. To put it in the words of a veteran 190-pound Missouri U. line-man: "We've forgot all about those other defeats this year. What we are going to do now is lick St. Louis U."

Bengal preparatory moves this week have made it fairly apparent that the Billikens are almost certain to find the air well filled with Missouri passes Saturday afternoon. Not a small amount of the Tiger team's passing ability is centered around the pass-flipping ability of little George Stuber, 155-pound sophomore quarterback. Two other sophomores will be counted on to do most of the grabbing of Stuber's passes. They are Charles Schiele, left end, and almost unnamed Big Six Conference all-star choice, and Woodrow Hatfield, fleet-footed right halfback, who is filling the gap left by loss of Percy O'Neil, 160-pound fullback, with a broken leg.

Likewise it will be upon the two sophomore backs, Stuber and Hatfield, that the Missourians will rely for most of their gaining through the line. Captain Frank Bittner and Carl Johanningsmeier, veteran members of the starting backfield quartet at fullback and left halfback, respectively, fit into the offensive picture mostly as the interference for Hatfield and Stuber.

Coaches Jack Crangle and Harry Lansing today were still in a state of indecision about the personnel of the forward wall they will start against the Billikens. Three changes are among those considered. Denny may give way to Morgan at center, Morgan to Noblitt at right tackle and Hartman to Donham at right guard. Morgan and Denny are both nursing injuries, while Noblitt is expected to replace Hartman as the interference for the brilliant play the former showed against Temple last week.

Seven members of the Tiger squad will have an additional incentive in the St. Louis U. battle. It will be their last game, closing their three years of competition at Missouri U. These are George Edgerton, fullback, St. Louis; Fred Hartman, guard, Columbia; Mack Gladden, end, Turley; Otha Ray, halfback, Mayville; Capt. Frank Bittner, fullback, Greenfield, Ia., and Hal Austin, guard, Mount Vernon.

WASHINGTON STATE ELEVEN WORKS OUT HERE ON WAY SOUTH

The husky football squad of Washington State, all the way from Pullman, Wash., stopped over in St. Louis this morning and worked out for an hour at Francis Field, Washington University.

The Washingtonians are scheduled to battle the Green Wave of Tulane at New Orleans Saturday. The Southerners are favored to win, for State has been defeated by Southern California, 34-6; California, 12-7, and the University of Washington, 12-0.

PITCHER MAILED SOLD TO CHATTANOOGA CLUB

Just a Bad Guess.

THEAT Holy Cross-Boston College charity game, which caused both schools to suffer a loss and charity a black eye, developed some incandescent tempers in Boston. A goat is being sought and the Mayor, the colleges and even a radio broadcaster are being dragged into the spotlight in the hunt after an official Angora.

However, the incident, from this distance, seems to be a case of good intention founded on a bad idea.

It is always a bad idea to gamble, when trying to raise money. And that's exactly what it proved to be in Boston. The promoters of the charity show had the idea that they would BUY the annual Holy Cross-Boston College game and sell it to the public at a big profit. It's the same system as is used by the Milk Fund charity in New York when it promotes a big fight by paying huge guarantees. The promoters gamble on the attendance and receipts.

The Boston promoters thought the Holy Cross-Boston College game was worth more than $1,000 paid admissions and so they arranged to take it to Harvard Stadium, Cambridge, where the seating capacity was greater. To do this it was necessary to pay off the Fenway Park contract (said to be $15,000) and guarantee the two schools their usual receipts from this game, amounting to about $60,000.

A Losing Gamble.

BUT the crowd did not follow the shift in parks and the added attendance failed to materialize at Cambridge. The promoters' gamble failed and a deficit resulted.

It's nothing new. Not many years ago Chicago women promoted a charity fight, between Benny Leonard, then champion, and Pinkey Mitchell. They literally bought it. They paid all expenses, including a $25,000 guarantee to Leonard; charity received $25.

They, too, gambled and failed. The colleges involved at Boston were not to be blamed. This annual contest for years had paid the athletic expenses of both schools, for the entire year. It was a traditional game and it was not fair to ask them to give up the sure receipts from their only breadwinner.

The plan was just another well-intended promotion idea that went wrong.

Our New Baseball Rival.

WHILE major and minor league baseball magnates are exchanging ideas on the best way to keep the sources of baseball supply productive, from across the Pacific comes word that baseball is developing into a national game there; that high schools and universities are turning

Football Attendance Fell Off 10 Per Cent in Past Campaign, Survey of the Country Shows

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—College football attendance, on the basis of nation-wide reports to the Associated Press today, declined generally about 10 per cent for the 1931 season, as compared with last year, despite evidence of its continued great popularity.

The falling off was widespread and accompanied by an even sharper decline in gate receipts, where the reduction of admission prices also was a factor, but plenty of testimony is at hand that the sporting public still loves a winner and will pay to see one.

Championship teams such as Tulane and the University of Utah showed substantial increases in drawing power over 1930, the former drawing 148,000 at home for a jump of 15 per cent. Tennessee reported a 30 per cent increase in attendance. Harvard and Ohio State showed slight gains.

The University of California, definitely on the upgrade, showed an increase of $4,000 in cash customers, although the total of 305,493 for 1931 included one more game than the year before at Berkeley.

U. S. C. Shows Increase.
Southern California probably will show a substantial increase when its long season is completed. The Trojans, for six home games so far, are within 90,000 of their total of 354,443 for eight games in 1930. This year's biggest turnout, 35,864, saw Southern while Stanford in the Olympic Stadium at Los Angeles.

New York University reported the biggest increase in attendance of any major college or university in the country, a gain of approximately 15,000 customers, or 22 per cent, based upon total attendance figures of 397,740 this year and 325,914 in 1930.

FOOTBALL FANS ARE BLAMED BY RETIRED COACH FOR ACCIDENTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—John W. Heisman, one of those stalwarts who pioneered football and has lived to see it flourish beyond his fondest hopes, has a ready explanation for the mounting score of serious injury and death attached to the game.

"Recently I took a ride of about 40 miles from Tokyo to Kamakura, going by way of Yokohama. On our automobile ride we must have passed 200 ball games. It was a sunny Sunday afternoon in early November, and those boys who were not playing ball were going to other ball fields on their bicycles.

"There wasn't a vacant lot which didn't have a ball game. Frequently two or three ball games were going on at one time. On the beach at Kamakura I counted five ball games within a quarter mile. They were boys of all ages, 6, 10, 15 and 20. If there was no ball game going on, then two boys were playing catch.

"And the outstanding part of it is that about seven-eighths of them wore uniforms, even the tiny tots. Japan's living standard is considerably below ours, a good percentage of the family purse goes in for sports. Apparently few men are so poor that they cannot equip their offspring in the clothing of the diamond.

No "Pro" Baseball.

"As there is no professional ball in Japan, the player's baseball progress ends with his college career. There are a few industrial teams, and Tokyo, Yokohama and Osaka play a series of games between all-star teams of those cities. But this still is amateur.

"An effort to start a professional team was made several years ago, but it died for lack of opposition. While the college teams were graded, a sudden dispensation to play the American big leaguers, their amateur standing is so strict that they cannot play a Japanese professional or semi-professional club, not even in an exhibition game."

Doublets the visit of the American professionals will sow the seed of professionalism over there. And, while the present is not auspicious for launching league activities, professional baseball is almost certain to develop in Japan later.

Because of their lack of size and strength, as compared with Americans, it is extremely unlikely that Japanese baseball, even when on a professional plane, will ever furnish serious contention to the extent of breaking into a real "world series."

Rights of Coach.

Although admitting he has done the same thing, the following Heisman doubts that a coach has the right to harangue his athletes in the modern manner. A pep talk, yes; but not the explosive brand of oratory that makes a youngster run a temperature.

"You don't see the older coaches roiling in for that so much these days," he said, "and they continue to get results."

Somebody had suggested that the modern, open style of play was more conducive to injury than the old mass play. But Heisman says: "If we still were playing without forward passes and laterals and other modern features, the Sunday papers would carry a casualty list a foot long."

Newton Gets 724 Total in Major City Pin League

Ray Newton of the Brannans led the week's round of the Major City League with a three-game score of 724, turning in games of 283, 245 and 196 to help his team defeat the Wooster Lumberjacks two out of three. Forrest Eyo was high for the losers with 498.

The Schaper Products team took three games from the M.M. City five, the winners totaling 2132. Greenek led the winners with 652, while Wolff had 559, Weber 421 and Heibel 511. Colburn led the losers with 499.

Led by Walshed with 455, the Silver Seals took two out of the three from the Alexander five, with Bruce's 445 being high for the losers.

Henry Schaeffers took two out of three from the Hawks and the Julie Schmitts won three from the Lindbergs and the Witter Rats five won two out of three from the General tres. Otto Steln, Jr. had 663 for the Witters, while Oberbeck led the losers with 410.

REDBIRDS' CR UTILITY PLAY IS DISPOSED FOR CASH

By the Associated Press.

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 2.—A high star utility player of the Cardinals was sold today by the Cardinals to the Cincinnati Reds. The sale of High was the most important player deal since the gathering of the Cardinals in St. Louis last week. The sale was a strategic move.

Other deals announced included the sale of Nick Cunniff, a pitcher, from the Cincinnati Reds to the St. Paul Association. The Cardinals also released a pitcher, an infielder.

High had his greatest success in the major leagues in 1930 pennant race. He was a two-base hits won two games in Brooklyn in a campaign, to put the Cardinals back in the lead.

First his two-base hits gained enabled him to gain a 1-to-0 victory, while the next day, through with another day, the Cardinals a victory. Following this great show, High had his greatest success in the major leagues in 1930 pennant race.

This was evinced in a series, when Sparky Adair, with an injured arm, was forced to play. He covered the hot corner and played fine baseball to help the Cardinals defeat the Athletics. The final contest of the season started the two scoring in the Redbirds with hits.

ANDY HIGH SOLD BY THE CARDINALS TO THE CINCINNATI REDS

RED BIRDS' CRACK UTILITY PLAYER IS DISPOSED OF FOR CASH ONLY

ANDY HIGH.

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 2.—The sale of star utility third sacker Andy High by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Cincinnati Reds, the sale of High was the most important player deal announced since the gathering of baseball managers here this week. No details of the sale were divulged except that it was a straight cash transaction.

Other deals announced today included the sale of Nick Culp, outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, to the Columbus American Association team.

The Reds also released and sold the St. Paul Association club Ed Breskel, a pitcher, and Clyde Beck, an infielder.

High had his greatest of 10 seasons in the major leagues in the 1929 pennant race, when his two-base hits won two important games in Brooklyn late in the campaign, to put the Redbirds in front. First his two-bagger off Harry Vance enabled Bill Hallahan to gain a 1-to-0 victory in 11 games, while the next day he came through with another double, to give the Cardinals a victory.

Following this great showing, the Cardinals last season tried to send High to the minors, but the St. Louis boy protested, claiming that he needed only one more year to become a 16-year man, which would enable him to his unconditional release. So the Redbird management relented, and Andy was retained as a reserve infielder. He did not enjoy a wonderful season. He had slowed down, but he was still a pretty good man to have around for the pinch.

High Beat Athletics.

This was evinced in the world series, when Sparky Adams was hit with an injured ankle, and Andy was shoved into the breach to cover the hot corner. High played fine baseball to help the Cardinals defeat the Athletics. In the final contest of the series, he started the two scoring innings for the Redbirds with hits to enable

FARR DISPLAYS HIS RING STUFF IN "GYM" BOUT WITH JOE PARKS

By W. J. McGoogan.

Joe Ghnoully is due for a rather unusual experience in his bout with Johnny Farr at the Coliseum tomorrow night, for Joe will tower over his opponent about 3 inches, as Ghnoully, 5 feet 4 inches tall, is just that much taller than the Cleveland Italian whose name appears in the family Bible as John Farinacci.

Farr gave the local fans their first glimpse of him in a spirited workout at the National Gymnasium yesterday afternoon and they saw a boxer who appears to have earned his reputation for being able to "take it." Judging from his eyes, his ears and his nose, Farr has taken plenty during his seven years in the ring. But he is also able to give it.

Joe Parks acted as sparring partner for Farr for one round and the little Johnny couldn't get past Joe's left hand with any degree of success. Parks stuck out that left jab and worked it rapidly into Farr's face with disconcerting regularity.

Then came Johnny Kaiser, who is just training in case anything happens to a principal on the card, in which case John will step into the breach. Apparently he was trying to make something happen to Farr, because when the Cleveland boy came in close, Kaiser pushed him away with his left and dropped his right, neatly and decisively, on Farr's chin. However, Farr merely shook his head and came in for more. He can take it all right.

Al de Rose has been substituted for Roy Nidy as Dave Barry's opponent in one of the preliminaries. Nidy suffered a cut eye in a workout. De Rose, whose home is in Indianapolis, boxed Joe Pagalino here about three years ago and won when Pagalino was disqualified.

ANDY HIGH

Burleigh Grimes and Bill Hallahan to tame George Earnshaw. On the season, he hit for a figure of about .235.

High, who is 34 years of age, started his baseball career with the Memphis club in the Southern Association in 1919. He made his debut in the majors with Brooklyn in 1922. Later he went to the Braves, and in the spring of 1923 he came to the Cardinals in a trade for Lester Bell. With the Redbirds he participated in three world series.

Association Extends Season.

WEST BADEN, Ind., Dec. 2.—The American Association today decided to extend the closing date of the 1932 season from Sept. 18 to Sept. 25. The change was made because the first schedule was too crowded, calling for 163 games in 167 days.

The definite schedule of games was postponed until January at the request of Kansas City, which desired to avoid a conflict with racing dates in that city.

Definite disposal of the Toledo question was up today. There were about 20 in the field for the club, now in hands of receiver, but Donie Bush and E. C. Clauer were regarded as the most probable purchasers.

RHEAUME STARS AS FLYERS LOSE TO DULUTH, 2-1

DULUTH, Minn., Dec. 2.—The Duluth Hornets squared the series with the St. Louis Flyers here last night by a 2 to 1 score and moved into undisputed possession of second place in the American Hockey League race.

The Hornets tallied early in the second period when Coach Johnny Mitchell injected himself into the game at center. Shortly after Mitchell got on the ice he teamed with Merrill, who lifted over Rheaume's drooping body.

Twenty-five seconds later, the Flyers tied the score when Scott squeezed a shot into the goal from an acute angle on the left. The puck hit the toe of Gossie Turner's skate, rolled over his pads and dropped on the blue line.

The Hornets conducted a furious attack against the St. Louis goal throughout the final period and their play finally brought results when Merrill passed from the corner of the rink across the goal mouth and Stuart batted the puck into the corner. Rheaume was tested to the limit in that last session, making 13 stops, all of them from within a few yards of the goal.

Kyler to Return To Action With Gunners, Sunday

John Kyler, halfback and star kicker of the Battery A Gunners, is expected to be back in action next Sunday, when Coach Jimmy Conzelman's team meets the Des Moines Hawkeyes at Public Schools Stadium in their weekly pro football game.

Kyler was out of the game last week-end because of a hip injury, suffered in the battle with the Hominy (Ok.) Indians. Kyler ran a put 55 yards to the Indians' 10-yard line. Then he was tackled hard by the Indians on the next two plays and an old injury was aggravated. He is expected to be ready to resume sending the ball 50 or more yards next Sunday.

Practice will be resumed tonight by the Gunners and "Tiny" Powell is expected to take his first workout with the squad. Powell is the end of the Cleveland Panthers, who stayed on here after last Sunday's game to play with the local eleven.

CLINNIN TO DETERMINE FIRST-ROUND PAIRINGS IN BOXING TOURNEY

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Major-General John V. Clinlin, president of the National Boxing Association, today had a date to pull names out of a hat to determine the pairings for the first round of the N. B. A.'s light-heavyweight elimination tournament.

More than 30 light-heavyweights of greater or less renown had entered and after checking over the entries to see that all forfeits had been posted, Gen. Clinlin was to draw eight names for the four opening bouts in the Chicago Stadium, Dec. 11. The second round will be fought out on Dec. 18.

CLIFF WHEELER, BEARS' STAR, ON VALLEY'S SECOND ELEVEN

FOUR DRAKE AND THREE GRINNELL PLAYERS NAMED ON FIRST TEAM

By the Associated Press.
DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 2.—A fast backfield and a husky, hard charging line make up the 1931 all-Missouri Valley football team selected by coaches, athletic directors and critics for the Associated Press today.

Drake University, which won its three conference games to lay claim to another title, placed four men on the first eleven. Grinnell rated three and Oklahoma A. and M. and Creighton, two apiece.

The Oklahoma Aggies, who won their only conference game and made a splendid showing outside the conference, made up for the lack of men on the first eleven by placing five men on the second

Henry Thomas, Grinnell quarterback, was unanimous choice for that post. He was one of the finest pass throwers that ever appeared in the valley, tossing 12

M'GRAW PLANS TO GIVE LINDSTROM TRIAL AT SECOND

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—John J. McGraw, in a fanning bee with the Sun yesterday, discussed his plans for next year's Giant team and revealed his plans to convert Freddie Lindstrom into a second baseman in the event Hughie Critz's arm does not respond to treatment.

"I intend to try Lindstrom at second base next year and feel reasonably sure he will succeed in that position," said the veteran manager of the Giants. "If not, he can return to the outfield where he developed into one of the best last season before he broke his ankle."

Forwards that went for touchdowns and scoring three touchdowns himself on ground plays.

The heaviest man in the backfield, Conrad Collin of Creighton, was voted a halfback berth. The 164-pound sophomore developed into one of the Bluejays' finest backs. He is equally capable as a line smasher or a broken field runner.

The Oklahoma Aggie midfielder, Hayden Trigg, whose brilliance was one of the outstanding features of the Aggie attack, drew the other halfback post. A specialist on offensive smashes, Trigg is "poison" once past the line of scrimmage. He can kick and pass and is a heady enough player to call the signals if Thomas were not in the lineup.

The fullback post went to Lloyd Larnard, 158-pound Drake star. Larnard, instead of relying on sheer power, picks his holes unerringly and is dangerous in the open, having speed and shiftiness.

Two Stars at the Ends.
With Thomas tossing the passes, this mythical eleven could put on a real aerial exhibition. Frank Duncan, Pioneer end, caught most of Thomas' passes during the season and enough of them to lead the Valley individual scorers. Johnny Briley, the Drake captain, another handy man on the receiving end, a great interferer and defensive player, is the other wing job.

Fred Blank, 215-pound Drake shotputter, and Dick Sklenar, star of Creighton's forward wall, were selected at tackle. They displayed Nemecek, Oklahoma Aggie tackle, who was on the first team in 1929 and 1930. Blank and Sklenar are dependable at opening holes as well as stopping opposing smashes at their job of the line.

Milo Bowers, Drake, was teamed with Bill Oates, Oklahoma Aggie, at guard posts. Oates and Briley are the only two men from last year's eleven that won their position again. For the center job, the experts picked Oscar Christofersen, Grinnell captain. He outplayed nearly every rival this year. Besides Nemecek, Willie Worthington, Creighton captain, of last year's first team, was shoved into a second team berth.

FIVE GAMES TONIGHT IN INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE BASKETBALL OPENING

Ten teams forming two divisions will play tonight in the opening of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball League at the Armory, Grand avenue and Market street. This is the fourth season of play in the Industrial League.

Games are as follows: Division No. 1—McQuay-Norris vs. Purina Mills at 8 o'clock, and Missouri Pacific vs. International Shoe at 9 o'clock. In Division 2—Procter & Gamble vs. Quickmeal Stove, 7:30 o'clock; Fouke Fur vs. Rawlings, 8:10 o'clock, and J. C. Penney vs. Deere Plow at 9:30 o'clock.

Several former champions are included in Division 1, International Shoe, present titleholder, is again entering a strong team. McQuay-Norris is last year's Division 2 winners, and Purina Mills, not competing last year, held the title two years ago.

Newcomers in this "Y" League are Missouri Pacific, Fouke Fur, J. C. Penney and Deere Plow. Although their strength has not been tested, predictions have been made that at least one of them may upset the dope and come out on top. No admission will be charged at tonight's games.

MCKENDREE TO LOSE 5 STARS BY GRADUATION
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LEBANON, Ill., Dec. 2.—Eighteen McKendree College football players will receive letter sweaters for services the last season. They are: Captain Art. Horton, Albion; Robert Kurrus, East St. Louis; Henry Derwells, Collinsville; George Moorman, Edwardsville; George Scott, Webster Groves, Mo.; Owen Evers, Mounds; William Saunders, Xenia; Edward Soy, Edwardsville; Carl Brock, Clatsop; Frank Gruchalla, Bend; Lavern Dewees, Herrin; Woodrow Fulkerson, Albion; Elmer Todd, Pleasant Hill; Dave Zook, St. Louis; Marion Radosevich, Zellerbach; Oakle Bradham, Clatsop; Ray Sparlin, Flora; Josef Spudich, Sawyerville; Mortin Evers, Saunders, Dewees and Sparlin will be graduated this year. The Bears' last season enjoyed their most successful season since 1927, winning four games, losing as many and tying one. Coach Doolen, starting his third season next year, will find himself fortified with a veteran for every position.

Insure Football Players? Gridiron Safest Place in World, Say College Officials

By Damon Kerby.

There is no need for group insurance for the football squads of St. Louis and Washington Universities, business managers of athletics of the two institutions told the Post-Dispatch, following agitation in some circles in the East to the effect that players should be financially protected by insurance.

"St. Louis University, like every other reputable school in the country, takes care of injured players," said Robert L. Finch, business manager of athletics at St. Louis U. "All medical bills are paid by the school, and I have heard of no college insuring its players as a way of taking care of them financially."

"But why insure football players? If boys are in good condition there is comparatively small chance of injury beyond the usual bruises. We haven't had a serious injury at St. Louis U. all season."

Good Trainer Best Insurance.
Finch declared that the best insurance for players is a trainer able to give first aid quickly and intelligently, and one who knows when a player shouldn't be in the game. He cited his own college experience, in which a trainer had a major part in bringing a team through the season with only one defeat.

"Our team at Drake, in '22, went through a hard season with only one defeat, and we had only 12 men available for regular duty," said Finch. "Of course, we had some other players, but they were not variety timber, and they weren't used. The 12 men used—the twelfth was a substitute end—received the usual knocks and bruises on the football field, but so expert was our trainer that he kept the 12 men in playing condition throughout the entire season. In one game a tackle received a sprain. Our trainer gave him expert treatment, and before the next game the injured tackle was again ready for action. A trainer of that caliber is the best insurance for players."

"And while we are on the subject of football injuries," continued Finch, "not one coach in 100 will use a player who should be on the side lines. They may have in the old days, but if so, that day has passed. The coaches have the 'will to win,' but not at the expense of a player. When there is doubt about the player's condition, he is kept on the sidelines, as happened only recently in St. Louis U.'s game with Loyola at New Orleans. Bob McCool, one of our backfield stars, had suffered a sprain. He could have played in the Loyola game and was eager to do so, but Coach Walsh kept him on the bench."

Agitation Unfounded For.
Arthur E. Eilers, business manager of athletics at Washington U., with Finch believes recent agitation in regard to football injuries and deaths is unfounded. "They talk about insuring football players against injury on the playing field, but first they had better insure all our students against automobile accidents and the like," said Eilers. "Why, a couple of our athletes have recently suffered fractured ankles—one was a fancy diver and the other a tennis player. Then there was the athlete who fell off a chair in his fraternity house at Grinnell and fractured his leg, and the football player at Northwestern who sprained his back while training cheer leaders!"

"The point is that accidents are likely to happen anywhere, and football players, if not bruised on the playing field, might be hurt or even killed while, say, waiting for a street car."

LAFFERTY, WHO SCORED DECIDING RUN IN 1912 WORLD SERIES, IS DEAD
GAS CITY, Ind., Dec. 2.—Robert "Bob" Lafferty, who played baseball with the Boston Red Sox and the Cleveland Indians two decades ago, is dead at his home here. He was 48 years old.

Lafferty was credited with scoring the winning run of the deciding game of the world series between Boston and New York in 1912. The run was scored in the final inning after a fly knocked by Fred Snodgrass.

"I've never signed a testimonial and I'm not going to start now. I just want to give you a little inside information and tell you what I think of men who aren't particular about shaving."

"I wonder if people realize the big part I play in helping callers to see their man. Frequently the decision is entirely up to me. Members of the organization ask my opinion of an unknown visitor before they decide whether to see him or not. When I say 'not so good,' his chances of getting

KANSAS BASKET COACH LOOKING FOR CLOSE RACE

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Dec. 2.—Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, University of Kansas basketball coach, looks for Kansas State and Iowa State to be the topmost contenders in the Big Six Conference court race this season.

Dr. Allen, whose Jayhawkers won the title last spring, pointed out that both schools had outstanding players in addition to the largest lists of returning lettermen in the circuit.

"The 'Three Musketeers' of the Aggie football team," he said, "loom as formidable in basketball as they did in football. Henry Cronkhite, Eldon Auker and Ralph Graham, all giants in stature, and exceptional in three sports at the Aggie school, will make the Aggies the most feared and powerful team in the conference."

Allen continued, "I'll have 'Little Lightning' Jack Roadcap, leading scorer last year, with Ralph Thompson, his running mate. Albert Heitman, center, and Dick Howk, and Max Hicke, guards, also will return."

Nebraska was given only an outside chance of winning the title, because of the lack of veteran material. He expressed the opinion that Missouri, with five lettermen returning, would "cause some trouble," and said that Oklahoma's chances would be hurt by the Hawaiian trip of the football squad, Graffman and Jackson, two court stars, being on the Sooner grid squad.

As to K. U.'s chances of repeating, Dr. Allen said that, while Bill Johnson, center, Ted O'Leary, forward, and Les Page, guard, will be back, the team "will greatly miss the services of Tom Bishop and Frosty Cox, all-conference forward and guard last year."

KENTUCKY DRILLS FOR GAME WITH FLORIDA
LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 2.—The University of Kentucky Wildcats were due for a light signal drill today, before boarding a train for their Southern Conference game at Jacksonville, with Florida, Saturday. Shipwreck Kelly and George Yates, halfbacks, are still ailing, but probably will be able to make the trip.

Two rounds of games will be played before the holidays, with play being suspended from Dec. 19 to Jan. 4.

The teams and the nights on which they play follow: Monday Night Division, Varsity, Markham Memorial, Boyd-Richardson and Columbus Girls; Tuesday Night Division, Redbirds, South Side Chevrolet, Concordia Turners and Catholic Women's Association; Friday Night Division, De Andreis Girls, Sayman Products, Centenary M. E., Polish Roman Catholic Union, Gracemore Intermediates and Rock Church High School Intermediates.

Granite City to Open Basketball Season Tomorrow

The Granite City High School officials expect a successful basketball season for the "Happy Warriors" in the Southwestern Illinois conference, as six of last year's lettermen will be in action this year. Coach Byron Bonarth also has a host of outstanding newcomers left over from the previous season. Granite City will open its season against Venice High tomorrow night.

The lettermen who have returned are Moss, Taylor, Holland, Johnson, Konvick, Konvick and Capt. Gardner. Taylor and Konvick will be lost through mid-semester graduation. Some of the outstanding newcomers are Beeler, Lignout, Aurderheld, Curry, Herdman and Nelson.

The schedule follows:
Dec. 3—Granite vs. Venice at Venice.
Dec. 11—Granite vs. Kensington at Granite.
Dec. 18—Granite vs. Woodruff at Woodruff.

BOILER ATTACHED TO EXPLODES, KILLING

Barn and Farm House Wrecked by Blast at Jersey.

By the Associated Press.
SWEDENBORO, N. J. Two men were killed by a three-ton boiler attached to a 10-foot hole in the barn at Woodstown, near the blast.

The blast shook the barn and surrounding area, and a boiler hurtling through the air tore a 10-foot hole in the barn. Danner, 45 years, whose farm the still was in a field 100 yards away, was thrown into the air.

Danner, his wife and children were thrown into the air by the boiler passing hallway, showering mud and debris. No one in the barn was injured. Danner told he had leased the barn to the two men who intended to manufacture. He did not know their

Seats for Charity Game Selling Rapidly; $34,000 Fund Expected

Entire Gate Receipts of St. Louis U-Missouri U. Football Contest to Go to Unemployed.

Entire gate receipts of the benefit football game Saturday afternoon between St. Louis University and the University of Missouri will go to the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment, Tom K. Smith, chairman of the committee, announced today. Sale of reserved seats is expected to exceed $34,000.

Donation of services by officials and other individuals and organizations has made it virtually certain that expenses can be taken care of by receipts from concessions and sale of programs, Smith said. The largest expense is that of bringing the University of Missouri team to St. Louis, which will cost about $450. Other expenses are $150 for printing and $100 for miscellaneous services.

Arrangements have been made for 200 girls to sell flowers which St. Louis florists have donated. Instead of having a set price for programs, the girls will carry coin boxes for voluntary contributions.

Large Crowd Expected.

The game, for an unofficial championship of the State, is expected to attract a crowd which may exceed the ordinary capacity of Walsh Stadium, and arrangements have been made for the erection of temporary bleachers to son, Mrs. W. T. Donovan, Mrs. A. B. Harrington, Mrs. John H. Herron, Mrs. Rosewell Messing, Mrs. George R. Mathieu, Mrs. Edward C. McGrath, Mrs. L. L. Renfrow, Mrs. Paul Robyn, Mrs. P. Schuber, Mrs. H. C. Schuyler, Mrs. A. G. Wichman and Mrs. George Will.

Those who purchased box seats yesterday are Lawrence Mullen, J. J. Devereaux, W. E. Callahan, W. G. Gunn, O. E. Haupt, David O'Row, K. Langan, Earl Painter, Milton Strauss, Mrs. Edward J. HOOVER GIVES LITTLE NEWS, WORKING ON TWO MESSAGES

President Cancels Last Two Press Conferences Because of Press of Business.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—President Hoover has given out little information of late, so observers think he is saving up some real news for his annual budget messages to Congress. Both documents have occupied his time early and late, between a growing list of callers.

Usually the President talks to newspaper correspondents twice a week and one of his secretaries sees them twice a day, but Hoover has canceled both of his last press engagements and little has been said by his aids.

The chief executive's annual message is to appear before Congress next Tuesday. The President is expected to hold up its completion until late this week, or possibly the first of next. The budget message is due for delivery next Wednesday.

A National Workman

He is the composite workman of a national industry. His myriad hands contribute to the making of countless pairs of shoes. He stands behind the operators of thousands of machines. He knows, most intimately, the units and functions of their mechanical servants. He built them, and to keep them running smoothly and profitably for every user, is his business obligation. From his great resources, some twenty-one million parts are distributed annually. He is an ideal workman. He labors for many factories but is not employed by any factory. He is an obliging workman. He responds instantly to every order and request, and swiftly answers every demand for help. There is no task too difficult, or any limit to his skill. He has an amazing habit of multiplying himself. His helpfulness is everywhere and anywhere, almost at once. He is a creative workman. He represents a dominant purpose, to continuously invent new machines, and to advance methods of manufacture. He is an economic workman. His giant task is to reduce the cost of making shoes and increase their value to the buyer—that the feet of the people of America may be clothed with even better footwear. A National Workman!

CHAPTER EIGHT.

THE men behind were intent on the game. But Della had heard. She looked up quickly and away again but not quickly enough, that time, Nevie said, casually: "That's Bill. He picked Olive up in town. Shall I get them over?"

There was appeal in her eyes. If she didn't know it, Della did. Della nodded, and regarded her cards again.

Nevie stepped out of the French windows onto the brick terrace. The Blanchard property was nearby, one lawn on that side ran directly into the Hunt lawn. The bulk of the Hunt acreage lay to the back and on the other side of the house.

"Hello!" called Nevie clearly. "Bill! Olive! I'm at Della's. Come on over."

There was a little silence. She thought: "Are they whispering?" She thought: "How silly, as if I could hear them!" But she swore to herself that she had heard. "Bill called: 'Be with you in half a jiff.'"

He and Olive came in four minutes later. Olive was wearing a long wrap of summer ermine and a little tight-fitting hat. She dripped from her ears. Bill was grinning cheerfully. "Well, this is great," he said, regarding the bridge players.

"Cut in?" asked Mort, presenting Carter.

They did so. There were easy explanations. "Phoned Bill I was stuck in town. He brought me down like an angel. But it was so late we stopped for dinner," said Olive, and then, audaciously: "You don't mind, do you, Nevie, darling? Even if I am in love with your husband?"

"No, I don't mind," said Nevie. "And I wish you'd do it often. It makes him a lot more attentive to me when he has something on his conscience."

Laughter. The rattle of glasses, the clink of ice. Smoke. Nevie and Carter had cut out. He said: "Let's go out on the terrace . . . there should be a hunter's moon."

There was. They stood there a moment, leaning on the low, ivy-covered wall, to which one descended by a series of low flat steps. Nevie looked up at the quiet heavens. She thought: "Why am I so thick about this? He didn't lie. He just didn't tell me. Why didn't he tell me? Why didn't he say 'Olive's with me; we'll have dinner.'"

Carter flung away his cigarette. He looked beside her, tall, in the impeccable dinner clothes. He said suddenly: "I'd like to see you again, Nevie Lancaster. May I?"

THAT had been the beginning; a hunter's moon, a heartache and an attractive man who said: "I'd like to see you again, Nevie Lancaster. May I?"

She had laughed, of course; she had answered, lightly: "And why not?" And Harry Carter had replied: "Why not, indeed? I'm staying here a few days as Della told you. I have a very strong idea that I'll be at Westlyne often—the last obsequies, you know. A house goes along in the neighborhood, first, once your builders fall into line, but the final and finishing touches are what keep an architect on the anxious seat. Waterford's given me an entirely free hand and that's one reason why I'm keen to have everything go just right."

He had said it with the utmost gravity. Bill had called, from the house. And they'd gone in, for drinks and sandwiches. Bill, Nevie observed, wore his small-boy-in-the-jam-closet-expression. Olive, however, appeared quite untroubled.

Going home, Nevie asked: "Why didn't you tell me tonight Olive was with you?" He answered, with guilty innocence: "Didn't I? I thought I did."

She was angry and she was hurt. But something in his absurdly amused her. She laughed aloud. She said, severely: "Bill, you know you didn't! Not a word."

He laughed, too, infinitely relieved. She took it all right then. As a matter of fact, he had no intention of concealing from her his trip down to Westlyne, with a dinner stopover and a companion. But Olive had made an issue of it, had urged: "Don't say anything to Nevie, Bill. Oh, I know you think she won't mind. Men are so stupid. That's half their charm. But she will mind. I know women, especially wives. She'll rub it in. What she can't know can't harm her, can it? And she's been torturing—torturing me, lately, Bill. She's convinced that I have designs on you, and she's perfectly right, which makes it inconvenient."

SO, he hadn't said anything over the phone. It had been made clear for him not to say anything because of Nevie's obvious disapproval when he told her he wouldn't be home in time for dinner. Now, driving back from Della's, he explained. "Gosh, I just didn't think, Nevie!"

She said: "That's all right, Bill. I'm not going around with a chip of suspicion on my shoulder. I suppose," she guessed shrewdly, "that Olive told you not to tell?"

"Lord, why should she?" he asked, but his tone was enough to convince her that she had.

"Because it makes an affair of it. Oh, I don't mean what you think I mean. It makes it important to her, if I don't know. Well, let her have her importance—she's built that way. She'd like, at present at any rate, to live in an atmosphere of intrigue and mystery."

The Troubles of Jocelyn Lee

JOCELYN LEE and her two children as they appeared in court.

They Have Provided Hollywood With More Thrills Than Any Movie Melodrama

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30. THE harrowing tale of the lady and the tiger didn't hold a candle to the tale of the lady and the slipper—particularly when the lady was Jocelyn Lee, demure but red-headed film actress, and the slipper was her own, delicate, French-heeled, grasped firmly in her hand.

The film siren's window-breaking orgy at the Hollywood home of Ivan St. Johns, noted screen scenarioist, leaked out recently in a Los Angeles courtroom when Miss Lee, divorced wife of Luther Reed, well-known film director, was tried on a charge of disturbing the peace in the motion picture colony.

The result of the first-round court appearance of the little star was a draw, as the jury disagreed hopelessly and was finally discharged. When the second trial was called the prosecution dropped the case. St. Johns saying that he was willing to let by-gones be by-gones. But the record of Miss Lee's temper remains.

Indeed, this temper has drawn attention to her before. When the divorce suit which cut apart the matrimonial bonds of Reed and herself was tried, Reed had plenty of testimony about it to offer the court.

In a San Francisco hotel, he said, she got indignant over something and threw lots of glassware at him. In the casino at Agua Caliente, he added, she flung a stack of money all over the floor. Later, he said, they got into a family dispute at home and she socked him on the head with an ashtray.

Somehow, similar testimony, in fact, had been given by her first husband, Henry Lehman, who once testified that he offered her $500 if she would live by herself, protesting that he was tired of fighting and asserting that she specialized in throwing kitchen utensils at him.

But the spectators in Jocelyn's most recent court appearance all agreed that, to look at her, you'd never guess it.

Her attack on the home of St. Johns, in which 15 windows were broken and a number of quaint old cuss words were distributed to the night air, came after she had been unable to get in to have a talk with Reed, who was visiting St. Johns at the time.

"My two babies were hungry. I had only 15 cents in my purse. I wanted Mr. Reed to take them to dinner," she testified. Weeping violently all the while on the witness stand, Miss Lee said she "lost control of myself because of extreme humiliation."

WHILE the story of the battle of the slipper was told in court by Miss Lee, St. Johns, Reed and numerous other witnesses, members of the jury and spectators in the crowded courtroom listened and laughed. And when Reed mounted the stand and said he was in a back room hiding while his wife was in court, he was up.

REED, the husband, denies it all and says she kept him busy dodging crochery.

The actress shows the judge how she suffered a damaged tooth in a fight with her husband.

MISS LEE in a merry mood in a motion picture.

MR. REED, the husband, denies it all and says she kept him busy dodging crochery.

JOCELYN also tells the court that Reed hit her on the jaw and threatened her with a revolver.

braided her former husband from most of the ills that have since befallen her.

St. Johns and Reed finally left orders with the butler not to let the lady in any more. And then one Sunday afternoon, the two men were entertaining feminine friends when Jocelyn hove into view.

The butler informed her that nobody was at home, which, of course, was a great mistake, inasmuch as both St. Johns' and Reed's expensive automobiles were parked in the driveway outside. Miss Lee smiled a grim smile and was about to push the butler in the face when St. Johns gently but firmly closed the door.

Through the door her words came to him. They were not nice words for a quiet residential district on Sunday afternoon. St. Johns was very much embarrassed, as all the neighbors were out by this time. She continued to shout at him through the door, all the while demanding to see her husband.

Everything might have been all right except for the fact that the quiet tones of Reed suddenly floated into Jocelyn's ears.

"It's a crazy woman," said Luther. "She's always going around the neighborhood asking to see her husband. The funny part of it is that she hasn't a husband. Sad case, very sad," he said to the somewhat amazed women companions who were listening, with arched eyebrows, in the parlor.

This further enraged Miss Lee. "Oh, so I'm a crazy woman, am I? And you won't let me in, eh? Well, what do you think of this?" she shouted to the world at large.

And forthwith she shattered the pristine loveliness of a tall French window with her dainty little slipper.

About that time, St. Johns slammed the door again and ran for a telephone. He called the police. But they were slow in arriving.

IN the meantime, Miss Lee went round and round the house, hammering and kicking at the tall French window with her dainty little slipper.

Vanities Reflect Olden-Day Styles

The vogue for old fashioned fancies has spread even to Madam's vanity case. The old word in powder boxes is at flat round case of Delft blue or rose enamel with a miniature of a powdered court lady, reminiscent of Fragonard's paintings, in the center.

Plaster Busts

To clean plaster busts, dip them into thick liquid starch. When dry, brush off the starch. The dirt will come off with it, leaving the busts as clean and spotless as when new.

French windows. Thus, by the time a police car whined to a stop in front of the house, the ocean breezes were blowing gently through the whole lower floor of the house.

Shortly before the arrival of police, St. Johns rushed outside and held Miss Lee by the wrists for a time in order to stop her window-smashing orgy. "But she got in some awful digs with her finger-nails," he said, "so I let her free." And then the police-Lee battle started.

In the police car were three policemen, and all were strong men and true. But when Miss Lee came charging at them, they dodged in and out of the shrubbery in a sort of clumsy spring dance that added greatly to the merriment of the neighbors.

Finally, Jocelyn, who was chasing them with her shoes in her two little hands rather than on her two little feet, stubbed her toe on a half-buried tree root, and was captured.

"Now, lady," said a burly sergeant, "I don't wanna seem inquisitive or anything, but what the hell do you think this is?"

"Just temperament," said Jocelyn. "You see, I'm an actress and people are used to them."

"I never could get used to you," he said. "You was a great cavalier. What's the reason for all this hullabaloo?"

"I want my husband," said Jocelyn.

Now Brush Away Stain

Teeth Whiten 3 Shades in 3 Days

There's no reason now why your teeth should be stained, yellow, discolored or prey to decay. For science has discovered the way to remove the cause of most tooth and gum troubles—the millions of germs that swarm into the mouth with every breath—and make teeth gleaming white. It's called the Kolykos Dry-Brush Technique.

Start using this technique—a half-inch of Kolykos on a dry brush. Overnight you'll note an improvement. In just 3 days your teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades whiter. Gums will feel firmer and look healthier. Breath and taste will be clean and sweet. Kolykos is unique.

The very moment it enters the mouth, this highly concentrated dental cream becomes a refreshing FOAM which permits the use of a dry brush, thus making KOLYNOS 10 times more effective.

This penetrating FOAM gets into and cleans out every tiny pit, fissure and crevice. Kills millions of destructive mouth germs, 190 million in the first 15 seconds. Erases tartar and stimulates the gums.

THUS TEETH ARE QUICKLY AND EASILY CLEANED AS THEY SHOULD BE CLEANED—RIGHT DOWN TO THE BEAUTIFUL, NAKED WHITE ENAMEL WITHOUT INJURY.

For sound, white teeth and firm gums start using the Kolykos Dry-Brush Technique. Buy a tube of KOLYNOS DENTAL CREAM.

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. J. B. Goldstein, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

The Growing Child.

THERE are style periods in medicine as in other fields, and it is only now that we are beginning to recover from the disconcerting influences of the "height-weight" period.

By accumulating data on the height and weight of many thousands of apparently healthy children of various ages, it was possible to establish a so-called "normal development."

As a measure of large groups the table is undoubtedly correct. The difficulty arose when individual children were compared with the so-called normal height and weight for a given age.

Too many individual children failed to conform and were set down as underweight, or underdeveloped.

Frantic efforts were made to push their development. However, no matter how much one may feed a mouse, it will never grow to the size of an elephant.

At the present time we are aware that we cannot evaluate the growth of an individual by a comparison of his status with that of the so-called average.

Each individual is a law unto himself. A child may be several inches shorter, and weigh a number of pounds less than is the average for his age and still have achieved the full measure of development which nature set for him.

Race and parentage, or heredity, exercise an even deeper influence upon the rate of growth than do the environmental influences. However, when all has been said on this score, and the reasons therein has been appreciated, there is still, this much to be added.

The seemingly underdeveloped child should not be denied all the advantages of good medical care, nor should its seeming retardation be charged to nature.

It might be due to something else.

Goose Feathers Vie

With Ostrich Plumage

Ostrich plumes are giving way to goose feathers as trims for Madame's new hat. New chapeaux, no longer ornamented with ostrich plumes, are now often decked with one side with fantasies of goose feathers. Most of the feather fans are bright in color in order to contrast with the hue of the hat.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Findings of general discrediting of election laws, and circumstances indicating "some fraud," by the Associated Press. Hastings of the Senate Subcommittee today questioned the validity of the Obama election that sent Barack Obama to the United States.

The Republican Sen Delaware laid a bus without recommendati his committee as it g permit counsel for Bar the contestant, former Thomas Heflin, to argu points.

Outstanding conclusions of the report were:

- That violations by officials were the rule rather than the exception, and extended to every place examined.
- That on the basis of the report, temporarily laid aside, Hasty and others could not find that the election result would be altered.
- That other questionable ballot changes this.

That Bankhead spent $500 more than permitted by Alabama law disqualifies him from office. Dates with expenditures of $10,000.

That exclusion of all colored ballots would mean annihilation of the wishes of the Alabama majority impossible.
